

Washington—Inner council discussions about the European crisis have shown the president to be much more critical of the Germans and the Italians than his state department advisers.

He felt that the German bombardment of the civilian population of Almeria was something against which the United States should take a firm and openly condemnatory stand. In fact, he seemed open-minded toward the idea of invoking the neutrality act and putting an embargo on Germany and Italy.

But Cordell Hull and Norman Davis were the height of caution. They believed that the United States should do nothing. Davis, particularly, believed in a do-nothing policy, especially anything which did not follow the leadership of the British.

In conversations with the German ambassador, Mr. Hull intimated in mild diplomatic language that any repetition of the Almeria incident might force the United States to take action under the neutrality act.

Ambassador Dieckhoff cabled this to Hitler; no word of it leaked out to the German public.

Hull On Spot

Secretary Hull, always the height of cautious graciousness, had a hard time maintaining it during the visit of Democratic and Farmer-Labor congressmen to demand the invocation of the neutrality act against Germany and Italy.

Hull can be one of the most long-winded talkers in the world when he wants to avoid an issue. This time he talked about fishing, Tennessee, the days when he was in Congress, and almost everything else in order to avoid the Spanish question.

"I've always got my transom open for you boys to crawl through," he said; "glad to see you anytime." Finally Congressman O'Connell of Montana suggested that they didn't want to waste the secretary of state's time with pleasantries. "I'm always glad to take time to talk to you," replied Hull.

"But we're rather busy," was the reply. Whereupon they finally got down to the subject of Spain. The delegation maintained that the bombardment of Almeria was an act of war and that the United States should declare an arms embargo against Germany and Italy. "You're just taking sides in a factional dispute," Hull replied. "I can't afford to do that. I'm likely to have another delegation down here tomorrow, claiming that all of you should be jailed. I can't side with one faction or the other."

"Norman Thomas came in to see me the other day and compared helping the Spaniards to the help Lafayette had given the colonies in the Revolution, and I asked him if he was going to go over and be another Lafayette."

Nowhere

Hull also launched a long complaint regarding the way Lawrence Simpson, the young American seaman whom he saved from a Nazi death sentence, had come back to the United States and maligned Hitler.

"He's seized every soapbox in every vacant lot," complained the secretary, "and inveighed against the government that saved him. You can see the difficulty in which that places me the next time an American gets into trouble and I have to appeal to the German authorities."

Finally Congressman Coffee of Washington asked, "Mr. Secretary, if the bombardment of Almeria doesn't constitute an act of war, can you tell us what does?"

"Read the neutrality act," shot back Hull.

"I have," replied Coffee, "I helped to pass it, but it's up to the state department to interpret it."

The meeting got nowhere, ended after strict admonitions by Mr. Hull not to say a word to the press.

Note—The delegation included Jerry O'Donnell of Montana, Robert G. Allen of Pennsylvania, Byron Scott of California, John Coffee of Washington—all members of Mr. Hull's own party—and John T. Bernard (Farmer-Labor) of Minnesota.

The Difference

Manhattan's elegant Representative Bill Sirovich was "pouring a little oil" on Representative John M. Robison, gangling Kentuckian. Said Sirovich:

"May I state to the distinguished son of Kentucky that in stature, personality and appearance he has always appeared to me another Abraham Lincoln."

To which Robison replied:

"When I first became a candidate for congress a friend said, 'You remind me of Abraham Lincoln.' I began to swell up with pride. But he added: 'Don't get puffed up about it. You are just

Industrial Good Will Banquet Planned Here

CITIZENS TO BE ASKED TO GIVE SUPPORT

Affair Will Be Held at Masonic Temple Thursday, June 17

Officials of all of Dixon's industries and citizens have been invited to an industrial banquet to be held at the Brinton Memorial Masonic temple Thursday evening, June 17, to be known as the Dixon Industrial Good Will meeting. Announcement was made today from the offices of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the meeting.

Citizens of Dixon are invited to attend the banquet and participate in the program. Tickets are to be placed on sale the first of next week and it is expected that about 600 will be in attendance. The program is now nearing completion and one feature will be the showing of a recently completed film depicting the growth and development of the steel plow industry, which originated in Grand Detour. The J. I. Case company has made possible the showing of this historic film at the Dixon meeting.

Industrialists Coming President M. H. Claussen of the J. I. Case company of Racine, Wis., Alfred W. Leland of the Rockford plant, a former Dixonite, and other officials of the Case company are expected to be present; H. C. and R. E. Freeman and other officials of the Freeman Shoe company of Beloit, Wis., which has opened an important branch in Dixon; President F. L. Johns of the Medusa Cement company and other officials from Cleveland, O.; President John Bush and officials of the Brown Shoe company offices at St. Louis, Mo.; officials of the Borden company and all other Dixon industries have been invited and many of these have forwarded their acceptances to President Charles E. Miller of the Chamber of Commerce.

President Miller today announced his appointment of committees

Nachusa Woman and Boy Injured in an Unusual Accident

Robert Currens, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Currens of Nachusa is a patient in the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital suffering from a minor skull fracture and other injuries sustained in an unusual accident Sunday noon about 12:30 near Walworth, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Currens and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Currens and son Robert were enroute from Nachusa to Kenosha, Wis., Sunday and near Walworth a door of the automobile opened and Robert who was standing against the door at the time, fell to the pavement.

Mrs. Ira Currens attempted to grab the child and also fell from the moving car to the paving. The child sustained a long scalp wound on the back of the head which required nine stitches to close, also a skull fracture. Mrs. Currens was badly bruised and both were removed to a physician's office at Walworth, where their injuries were dressed and then returned to Dixon where the boy was placed in the hospital. Mrs. Ira Currens was removed to her home in Nachusa.

Polo Pastor and Father Badly Hurt When Train Struck Auto

The Rev. Sidney Bloomquist, pastor of the First Methodist church of Polo, and his father, J. C. Bloomquist, 78, of East Chicago, Ind., are patients in the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital in Dixon suffering from injuries sustained when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an Illinois Central freight train, two and one-half miles south of Polo last evening about 5 o'clock. At noon today, reports from the hospital indicated that Rev. Bloomquist's condition was very good and that of his aged father was improved.

They were returning to Polo from a visit at the Peek orphanage and did not observe the approaching northbound freight train at the crossing until the front wheels of the car were on the track. As the driver attempted to reverse the car, the engine stalled, it was reported. In the crash both men were thrown from the car. The train came to a stop and took both men to Polo where they were removed to the office of a physician, and later brought to the Dixon hospital.

The elder man suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries and was apparently critically injured. The Rev. Mr. Bloomquist sustained a fractured ankle, broken ribs and minor bruises. The car was carried a distance of about 250 feet before the train could be stopped by Engineer George Fishburn of Freeport, and was almost demolished.

RIFT IN CHURCH OF ENGLAND NOW SEEMS IMMINENT

Militant Bishop Has Demanded Liberalization of Statutes

BULLETIN

Dublin, Irish Free State, June 8.—(AP)—News reels of the Duke of Windsor's wedding, which will be shown in England, will be exhibited in the Irish Free State, it was made known today. News reels of George VI's coronation, on the other hand, were virtually burned here.

BULLETIN

Birmingham, Eng., June 8.—(AP)—A rift in the Church of England was seen today in the demand by the outspoken Bishop of Birmingham for a reform of the divorce laws which caused the church's opposition to the marriage of Edward of Windsor and twice-divorced Wallis Warfield.

Dr. Ernest William Barnes, bishop of the industrial diocese since 1924, coupled his support of reform in the nation's divorce laws, with a suggestion that communion be given by the church to divorced persons. The bishop's address to the diocesan conference of which he is president brought into the open again the issue which led the Anglican church to refuse to bless the marriage June 3 of abdicated Edward.

Has Ready Answer

When people question contractor George Lindquist as to the seemingly long time his workmen are taking to complete the new front on the Rorer building, he has a ready answer. A pair of nightbirds decided the roof at the new structure was a substantial foundation for their 1937 love nest and Mother Nightbirds has laid a few eggs therein which she is unrelucting with all the zeal her lusty voice and beak can muster. Her maternal anger has won the respect of the workmen who are giving her as much peace as is possible for any rate family surrounded by clanging hammers, saws and drills of busy carpenters.

FUNERAL OF JEAN HARLOW THURSDAY A.M.

Private Services To Be Held For Famed Screen Actress

Los Angeles, June 8.—(AP)—The body of Jean Harlow, clad in white, her favorite color, lay in a bronze coffin today as a close associate recalled that the blonde film star voiced a premonition of death when she was stricken ill May 29.

The strange fear of the actress, who amassed an estimated $1,000,000 in seven years of screen success, was described by Violet Denoyer, friend and make-up attendant for Miss Harlow. "Jean looked at me strangely one morning—the same day she was taken ill," said Miss Denoyer.

Sudden Sorrows

Hollywood, June 8.—(AP)—Hollywood history is filled with chapters hardly less poignant in sudden sorrow than the death of Jean Harlow.

Literally millions mourned the loss of Marie Dressler in 1934 and of Will Rogers a year later. And there have been other girls here who died on the threshold—at the height—on the decline of fabulous film success. They include:

Barbara La Marr, the "too beautiful girl."

Renee Adoree, little peasant heroine of "The Big Parade."

Lillian Tashman, "best dressed actress," who died in a hospital the day before her first starring picture was to open on Broadway.

Dorothy Dell, starlet killed in an auto accident.

Thelma Todd, victim of monoxide poisoning in her garage.

Fay Webb Vallee.

Helene Burgess, Buffalo Bill Cody's wife in "The Plainsman," who died at 18 of pneumonia this year.

"You know, Violet," she told me, "I have a feeling I'm going away from here and never coming back."

Ever since Christmas the 26-year-old actress had worn a huge star sapphire ring on the third finger—of her right hand. It was a gift from William Powell.

In death her hair was not the platinum hue she made famous. It was what she had described as a "honey blonde," its natural color before she entered the movies. Miss Harlow was wearing the natural shade in her last film when she was stricken with her fatal illness of uremic poisoning.

Funeral Tomorrow

The body of the star who died at the height of her career was held at a mortuary for her mother and immediate relatives to look upon a last time before the funeral service.

Her mother, Mrs. Jean Bello, and her stepfather, Marino Bello, sought to forestall demonstrations by great throngs of curious persons like those which saw Rudolph Valentino as he lay in state and which greeted the train that bore his body across the continent.

Miss Harlow will not lie in state. The coffin will be closed when private funeral services are held at 11 A. M. tomorrow at the Wee Kirk of the Heather in Glendale. Arrangements for interment are yet to be made.

"Jean's mother wishes it so," said Bello, divorced from Mrs. Bello two years but united with her in common grief. "She wants Jean to remain in the memory of her fans as she was in life, so the body will not lie in state."

Little warning had been given that the end was near for the girl who did her first screen work in 1928 and shortly was rocketed toward stardom as the platinum blonde in "Hell's Angels." She left the set of "Saratoga," in which she was being starred with Clark Gable, last May 29, feeling ill.

She asked then for William Powell, who had been her closest friend for two years. Her illness was first reported as gall bladder trouble, then as a cold. She was removed to a hospital Sunday, without the fact becoming generally known, and died there yesterday just before noon.

Miss Harlow had been married

Fitzhenry Portrait Is Dedicated Today

Springfield, Ill., June 8—(AP)—Friends of the late Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry dedicated a portrait of him today in the southern district courtroom here.

Presentation of the picture of the jurist, who served as district judge from 1918 until 1933 and on circuit court of appeals bench in Chicago from 1933 until his death last year, was sponsored by more than 500 Illinois lawyers and friends.

House Calendar Lists Unfinished Legislative Work

Springfield, Ill., June 8—(AP)—As a reminder of the legislature's unfinished work, the house calendar was printed today in three columns, listing 364 bills ready for action.

Normally the legislature calendars are printed in two columns. Because the printing presses have limitations, today's calendar was in "blanket form," 24 inches deep with three columns.

Led by Reed F. Cutler, Lewistown Republican, the representatives started to "clean up" by striking 15 bills duplicated from the senate or having no chance to pass.

Bills killed included the Garman-Peters-Sturdivant University of Illinois building commission program, duplicated by the senate.

Only slight repairs and adjustments were needed by her twin-motored monoplane, she indicated.

Miss Earhart set her plane down for the unscheduled landing at St. Louis effortlessly after once circling the field. As soon as she and Capt. Fred Noonan, her navigator, climbed down from the ship, they reported at the Air France headquarters.

"Tired but happy," the flier, twice conqueror of the North Atlantic, described herself after her third trans-ocean flight.

"We had an excellent crossing of the South Atlantic," she said, "despite the bad weather that we had heard about from the weather bureau when we left Natal."

Miss Earhart said she made futile efforts to make radio contact with American and African stations during the flight.

Contributions To Republican Party $115,360 May 31

Washington, June 8—(AP)—William R. Castle, in charge of Republican national headquarters during the absence of Chairman John Hamilton, said today contributions to the party for the three months ending May 31 amounted to $115,360.

This included more than 5,000 individual contributions of $10 or less he said in a statement, calling this circumstance evidence that "persons of small means in increasing numbers are expressing through their contributions their faith in the beliefs and activities of the party."

The party deficit at the end of the period was $829,988.

Castle said the maximum contribution by individuals in the three months was $5,000.

Stuttle School Aid Bill Passed

Springfield, Ill., June 8—(AP)—In another effort to give financial aid to southern Illinois high schools, the senate passed by a 42 to 0 vote today the Stuttle bill creating a state-wide emergency school district.

The bill depends upon the measure to create a state school board, which has been tied up in the house. The state board would give aid to hard pressed districts that have levied maximum taxes. The Stuttle bill was amended last night to reduce its appropriation to $500,000, half the original figure.

Senator Harry C. Stuttle, Littlefield Democrat, said it was the only means of helping high schools since the veto of the Davis bill appropriating $798,000.

Debate was limited, with Richard J. Barr, Joliet Republican, questioning the plan to have the state school board and the auditor's office both handling state distributive funds.

Preferred Comedies

Whatever unhappiness may have attended her private life, Miss Harlow preferred comedy dramas to all other types of film stories, as witness "Blonde Bombshell" and "Libeled Lady." Even after her first picture success, she believed she was "the worst actress to enter films."

She changed the color of her hair first to platinum blonde, then red, then brownette, partly to meet film demands. She never wore a hat except in screen roles and preferred sports clothes and slacks.

Her popularity at the studio was breaking up in part to her generosity. She would treat the entire company to coffee and doughnuts mornings and at the conclusion of a picture present gifts to those who had worked with her.

Says Police Kept Film

The officials were requested to produce motion pictures of the rioting taken by the Rev. Fisk.

Mr. Fisk said police placed him in custody at a lockup, kept his camera for 19 hours, and refused to return the film.

Police announced five officers and one demonstrator who engaged in the riot told of seeing strikers drilled in military maneuvers two days before the battle. Police said the demonstrator, whom they did not identify by name, declared "captains" of the rioters had drafted detailed plans for overpowering the police guard and marching on the plant.

Hazel Weatherwax Becomes Bride Of Carl Plowman Here

Miss Hazel Weatherwax, daughter of Mrs. Clara Weatherwax of Milledgeville, and Carl Plowman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Plowman of this city, were united in marriage at high noon Sunday at the Brethren church following the morning worship. Rev. William Thompson, pastor of the church performing the single ring ceremony.

Acting as bridesmaid was Alice Weatherwax, sister of the bride, while J. W. Bootsma of Pella, Ia., a classmate of the bridegroom at North Manchester college, North Manchester, Ind., was best man.

The bride wore a gown of imported net over coronation blue with matching shoes and a picture hat. She carried a bouquet of tallman roses. The bridesmaid wore a beige lace frock trimmed with doulbonnais and accessories to match and she wore a shoulder corsage of sweet peas and swainsons.

The wedding dinner was held at 2 P. M. Sunday at the Colonial Inn in Grand Detour which was attended by several guests. Flower decorations consisted of peony buds, and the bride's cake was decorated in the pink and white motif.

The happy couple left on a short wedding trip of one week following the dinner. For travel Mrs. Plowman wore a thistle colored ensemble with white accessories. Upon returning they will be at home to their many friends in the Lally apartments at the corner of Second street and Ottawa avenue.

KELLY FAMILY IN REUNION AT STERLING

CHURCHES

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN

The Rev. L. W. Walter of St. Paul's Lutheran church, and his family are taking a short vacation out of the city which will end Friday. Anyone desiring to get in touch with him in the meantime should communicate with Harry Moore, 309 E. Eighth street, phone B1180; or Walter E. White, 309 Pine street, phone Y690.

MINISTERS HOLD PICNIC

The annual spring picnic of the Dixon Ministerial Association was held in Lovell park Monday afternoon by the local Protestant ministers, their wives and families. The dinner was prepared by the ladies under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Walter, Mrs. W. E. Thompson and Mrs. L. E. Conner. The dinner was followed by a recreation period and the regular monthly business meeting of the association.

A purse, contributed by the members of the association, was presented to the Rev. W. W. Marshall in appreciation of the completion of 10 years' service as secretary and treasurer of the organization. The speech of presentation was made by Dr. W. W. Walter, dean of Dixon ministers, who expressed the gratitude of the men for the faithful service rendered by Mr. Marshall.

Officers elected for the coming year were as follows: Rev. W. E. Thompson, president; Rev. G. D. Nielsen, vice president; Rev. W. W. Marshall, secretary-treasurer, and Rev. H. J. Doran, assistant secretary-treasurer. Plans were formulated for a community wide Sunday school enrollment Sunday to be held September 12. An interdenominational leadership training institute is to be held during the month of September. All Sunday school officers and teachers of the community are invited to make use of this opportunity to improve their leadership ability.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

The vacation Bible school began in Bethel church Monday morning at 9 o'clock with a very good interest and attendance. Indications are that this year will be the best school yet conducted in Bethel church.

The singing is the finest, under the leadership of Miss Gladys Smith. The children will enjoy a song service at the opening of each session of the school. The handwork is being omitted this year, and the Bible study for the entire two weeks will be entirely on the life of Christ.

Some surprises, treats and rewards will be given to make things interesting for the boys and girls. Each boy or girl enrolling in the school on or before Wednesday, June 9, and attending without missing to the close will receive a

Minor Hoodlum is Shot in True Gang Fashion this Morn

Milwaukee, June 8.—(AP)—William Jack Drentice was shot to death today as he drove his automobile.

Reconstructing the crime, the police concluded two persons had hidden in the back seat of his car. They said one apparently seized Drentice by the hair while his companion fired a bullet into the back of Drentice's head.

The 29-year-old victim was found slumped over the steering wheel of the car. He had left a night club less than an hour before.

Two men who were with Drentice at the night club denied to police they had seen the man between the time they left the place and the shooting was reported. The police said they would be released.

Dentice's police record showed arrests on larceny charges, for speeding, vagrancy and destruction of property. The record mentioned arrests at Racine and several Illinois cities.

JUST SO.

We can look back in our histories and find where the church has been as a beast. It has been as beastly as war could make it. Temporal power was the objective. When church and state become entangled we may expect to see a recurrence of a type that only is conforming to the age in which it lives, in its attitude toward state, the men, and affairs.

Newspapers of London went far in stultifying themselves in the King Edward incident. They joined in repression, as newspapers living in the atmosphere in which they live. Yet there are limits to all things of that character, and there is evidence that finally they became disgusted with the attitude of the bishops toward the Duke of Windsor, the former king.

"No one contests the right of bishops to maintain discipline within the church or to express their views on marriage, but the hard, rancorous tone of these statements will, we believe, shock the public," said an editorial in the London Star which is typical of editorials of the day.

"Every sentiment of generosity to the fallen idol, of Christian forgiveness and of good taste dictates a truce to criticism on the day of the duke's wedding.

"The man has been tortured and wounded for months past by abusive letters, by public rebukes and by private rebukes.

"It is deplorable to think that the only utterance of the head of the church on this day should be censorious of the clergyman who invoked the divine blessing on the union.

"The chief effect of this melancholy episode will be to alienate public sympathy from the church at the very time when it is seeking to recall the nation to religion."

HOW RED IS A LEFTIST?

In the mass of information issued on behalf of the loyalist government of Spain there are frequent denials that the recognized regime is dominated by communists.

The new premier of Spain, Dr. Juan Negrin, is described by the Foreign Policy association as a moderate socialist. His ministerial posts are held by three socialists, two communists and four "middle class republicans," according to a bulletin from the association. One of these so-called republicans represents the Basque persuasion of politics, whatever that is, and another comes from the Catalans.

If the middle class republicans are of the political faith described in this country as conservative, then the government of loyalist Spain consists of four conservatives and six who are not conservatives. The anarchists, who engineered an uprising recently, have been forced out with the assistance of the communists.

To analyze the cabinet further would be impossible at this distance. However, there is little profit in drawing fine distinctions on the amount of a politician's tendencies. One taste of socialism calls for another to give it effectiveness, and this leads gradually to stronger stuff such as avowed communism. The difference between a socialist and a communist is not in their goal, but in the haste with which they wish to arrive.

In our own country Norman Thomas and Earl Browder profess to despise each other's convictions. In theory they are apart, but actually they aim at the same target. Mr. Thomas, being more classical in his scholastic attainments, simply is not in such haste to arrive.

To say that a man is a mild socialist, a left wing socialist or a radical socialist is misleading. It would be as misleading as to describe a church member as moderately "saved" or entirely saved. According to the exhorter, a person will go either to heaven or to the place described so effectively by Dante. There seems to be no half-way house.

The figure of six radicals and four conservatives in the Spanish government applies only to the cabinet, but other figures have shown that the legislature as a whole is reflected in its political complexion by the cabinet's convictions.

A government 60 per cent radical seems a long way down the road to communism, especially if there is going to be, eventually, a system whereby the people rule. If the anarchists ever get back, that will clinch the thing completely.

"THE WOMAN I LOVE"

Now that the Duke of Windsor has married "the woman I love," it is to be hoped on behalf of a long-suffering public that the phrase will evaporate. The words have blared from millions of loud speakers, making it appear that the duke had married the object of the announcer's affections; they have appeared in millions of headlines, indicating that the ex-king had eloped with the sweetheart of press syndicate writers, and even editorial writers have patted on the back the man who at long last married "the woman I love."

It is an example of loose writing, and the mechanical fault lies in the use of either an incomplete quotation, or inadequate context. Press writers have been growing worse and worse in this respect.

This story, to illustrate the impropriety of ill-considered quotations, comes from the World War period: Sentry: Halt! Who's there?

Basso voice: Commanding officer and my wife.

Sentry: Advance, commanding officer and my wife, to be recognized.

A GENTLEMAN AMONG SPORTSMEN

Harvey T. Woodruff, Chicago Tribune writer who died last week, spent his life among sportsmen. Particularly was he identified with the race courses. At one time he was secretary of a jockey club.

If there is any place in a newspaper where boorishness might be overlooked it is in the sports pages; if there is any person who might peddle vile remarks, and have them overlooked, it is a writer from the racing stables. Yet, while the Chicago Tribune carried a column on its editorial page that was boorish when it was not vile, Harvey T. Woodruff maintained on the sports pages a column sparkling with wit and cleanliness.

Makers of the comic strips give a daily demonstration of the fact that filth is the notion of the one who peddles it and not a product demanded by the public, and there are just enough Harvey T. Woodruffs still in the land who are a rebuke to those who have to resort to smut and vile language to get a laugh.

WHAT ARE JURY RIGHTS?

In hand is a bulletin telling how many states now grant women "jury rights." What it means is that the states have enacted laws compelling women to respond to a summons to jury service.

The term "jury rights" heretofore usually has pertained to exemption from jury service.

Most men who are granted that exemption regard it as a right and do not intend to give it up without a battle.

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

A few years ago two explorers were afflicted with a fever in a South American jungle. They could not be moved and a certain serum was needed to save their lives. Rio de Janeiro was the closest place where the serum was available. By means of native runners and wireless the message was delivered to a Rio hospital and the serum was rushed to the men in a large container with 24 ounces of serum in it. It was necessary for each man to have 12 ounces. How could the measurement be made with the help of three vessels with capacities of 13 ounces, 11 ounces, and five ounces?

Egg's Popularity Brings Tribute From Specialist

Without disclosing which came first the hen or the egg, H. H. Alp, extension poultryman at the Illinois college of agriculture, avers that the egg is quite an institution of itself. Besides its use as human food, it also is in demand for dog feed, bird feed, fish feed, fox feed, hog feed and other commercial feeds. Eggs also are used in the leather and fur trade, in lithography, in photo-engraving, in cementing cork for jar and bottle caps, in pharmaceuticals, in textile printing, in paints for artistic work, in printing ink, in photography, in gliding books, leather, cloth fabric and in egg shampoo. Mr. Alp overlooked their use in political rallies and theaters employing ham actors.

Western Illinois Is Apple Center

Western Illinois, which in recent years has produced more than 2,500,000 bushels of apples annually, will continue to be the apple producing center of the state, despite problems which now beset growers in that section. This conclusion is reached following a study made by the farm credit administration and the Illinois college of agriculture. Much of the orchard land is located on bluffs bordering the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. More than 90 per cent of the operators own their orchards. Last year more than 48 per cent of the trees of bearing age and 68 per cent of those of non-bearing age were of early winter varieties. Establishment of more uniform grades and packs of apples was one of the suggestions for increasing profits, improving quality and reducing production costs.

Hoppers Hatching In Lee County

Reports from farmers living in Hamilton, May and other southwest townships of Lee county indicate that numerous grasshoppers are hatching, while in the northwest section of the county, particularly near the county line to the south of Rochelle, many hopper eggs have been found along fence rows, ditches and roadways. Some chinch bugs also are reported in the southwestern area. Farmers are being advised to use poison bran as soon as the hoppers begin hatching. This bait also is used to kill chinch bugs, but in this case should be spread in the evening. Best results in the war on hoppers will be obtained if the bait is spread in the wee hours of the morning.

$75,000 Offer

Assistant Labor Secretary E. McGrady is the latest New Dealer to be approached by the big liquor distillers with an offer to succeed the late Forbes Morgan (uncle of Mrs. Roosevelt) as czar of their industry.

Postmaster General Jim Farley, General Hugh Johnson and Publicity Director Charles Michelson have been tendered the $75,000 a year job, but all turned it down.

McGrady has made no decision in the proposition as yet. He left it up in the air when he sailed for a three-weeks vacation abroad to represent the U. S. at an international labor conference in Geneva.

Close friends have urged him to reject the offer. They have told him that the distillers are at one another's throats, that he would be sticking his head in a lions' den to try to bring peace among them.

Note—Last winter McGrady was offered a $25,000 job as labor adviser by the Philco Radio Co. His government pay is $9,000.

Merry-Go-Round

To North Carolina's veteran Lindsay Warren and Pennsylvania's first-term Robert G. Allen is due a good share of the credit for the president's final victory in the house on the $1,500,000,000 relief bill. Their calm, dispassionate speeches did much to quell the spirit of revolt. . . . One of the most petty attempted job raids in the relief fight was that sponsored by Representative Sirovich. The dressy Tammanyite proposed that no WPA supervisors or engineers be appointed without the "approval of the sitting congressman." The amendment was shouted down with a roar. . . . While the house was battling over the relief measure, members sat in the back row reading "Death in the WPA," a detective story written by Alexander Williams, former WPA publicity man.

DAILY HEALTH

BY DR. IAGO GALTSTON

Alcohol Addiction: I

"I have been told that there is some sort of tablet or other form of medicine which can be surreptitiously added to the food of one who is addicted to alcohol, and it is claimed that this drug or medicine will remove the craving for liquor," writes a reader.

He is badly advised. There is no such drug, medicine or compound known, though some unscrupulous quacks offer to sell such alleged remedies.

Were the treatment of alcohol addiction as simple as all that, it would not be such a serious and involved problem. Unfortunately, the whole problem of alcohol addiction is extremely complex. In any attempt to deal with one is confronted with the psychologic question of why the habitual drinker drinks to excess, and with all the problems arising from the physiological and constitutional effects of alcohol upon the body.

To begin with, one must differentiate between the general problem of the effects of alcohol used occasionally, and the effects arising from alcohol addiction. Alcohol does not become a problem to every person who uses it, and it may be safely said that the use of alcohol in itself does not produce addiction.

Of course, authorities are divided on whether, from a medical viewpoint, the use of alcohol in any quantity or under any circumstances is to be condoned. But such consideration is remote from the problem of alcohol addiction.

For in alcohol addiction we are confronted with the cumulative effects of a toxic substance which produces a progressive degeneration of the neuro-muscular and sensory organs, profound tissue changes in many organs—notably the liver and kidneys—degenerative changes in the brain and its coverings, in the heart and blood vessels and digestive system.

Together with these constitutional changes there is usually associated a deterioration of personality, including loss of memory and self-control, and a blunting of ethical and moral sensibilities. In the extreme degree there is a complete degeneration of the mental faculties, ending in dementia.

Alcohol addiction is a disease with many complications. It is a biologic and psychologic complexity. The victim suffers by moral obloquy, and is practically never helped by being shamed or moralized at.

FISH AND GAME CODES BEFORE SENATE TODAY

Fishing Licenses May Be Raised, Also Hunting Licenses

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—(AP)—Finally approved by the house after being completely rewritten, the state conservation department's fish and game codes were before the senate today.

In their revised form the codes, which seek to increase fish and game propagation work through a 50 per cent increase in license fees, have the approval of the majority of Illinois sportsmen. Fishing licenses would be raised from 50 to 75 cents while the fee for hunting would be $1.50 instead of $1.00.

The game code passed the house 90 to 12 and the fish code 80 to 16 last night.

The codes empower Conservation Director Charles F. Thompson, with the approval of the board of fish and game conservation directors, to recommend that the governor issue a proclamation closing part of the state for conservation of wild birds and animals. It also provides for refuges.

Principal opposition came from R. J. Branson, Centralia Republican, who opposed what he said were the introduction of codes which their sponsors objected to having amended.

With opponents asserting other states would retaliate, a bill by Rep. Elroy C. Sandquist, Chicago Republican, seeking to impose a tax of 6 cents a gallon on out-of-state manufactured beer, failed of passage and consideration was postponed.

The house was expected to concur quickly in the senate's amendment adding $100,000 to the $500,000 deficiency appropriation of $500,000 for payment of June old age pensions. The bill was approved by the upper house last night, 40 to 0.

Pension Rolls Reduced
Meanwhile, superintendent of old age assistance James H. Andrews reported that the pension rolls were reduced by more than 3,000 last month but that average payments increased.

Declaring that efforts to cut unworthy cases off the payroll would continue, Andrews said that $1,948,160 was paid to 118,355 persons in May, compared to $1,982,754 paid to 120,461 beneficiaries in April.

The bill of Harold G. Ward, Chicago Democrat, extending the Illinois emergency relief commission to July 1, 1939, was moved up to third reading, the passage stage.

Bills passed by the senate included: Clifford—Restores law to permit persons to pay taxes with costs but without penalty on property forfeited to the state for delinquency. (S. B. 314).

Brands, Hugh Green and Renick—provides exemptions in which counties may exceed the two and one-half per cent indebtedness limitation. (H. B. 655).

Street Car Men's Union Given Week's Paid Vacation Now

Chicago, June 8.—(AP)—Joseph J. Kehoe, secretary of the street car men's union, said today he expected 13,000 members to vote approval next Monday of a one-year contract with the Chicago Surface Lines which calls for wage increases and adjustments totaling more than $2,000,000 annually.

The contract, already approved by the company, would grant an increase of three cents an hour for trainmen and barmen and proportionate raises for other union members; one week's vacation with pay, and overtime pay after eight hours work instead of the present eight and a half hours.

Vacations with pay have never before been granted.

Visual Purple

Its Absence Cause of "Night Blindness," Doctors Learn

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Atlantic City, N. J., June 8.—(AP)—

Possibly ten per cent of motorists suffer from "night blindness," due to an absence of a dark purple liquid, notwithstanding that their eyes are perfect in daylight.

This was indicated by a new optical test shown to the American Medical association today, which will enable doctors to measure the fluid, known as "visual purple," essentially vitamin A.

It flows from the nerve endings in the eye known as rods. Only these rods can "see" in dim light. Night blindness, until the new optical test was perfected a few weeks ago, was supposed to be confined mostly to people on very poor diets, who ate almost no vitamin A. It was common in Russia during the war.

Medical men did not dream that the same blindness could affect large numbers of Americans who ate perfectly adequate food.

Seeing in either daytime or bright light is done with a different set of nerves known as cones. They have none of the dark fluid. While they are at work the purple fluid washes out of the rods. Without it the rods cannot see.

That is one reason why a person going into a dark theater does not see for a few seconds. He sees as soon as the purple flows again. While using the new optical test to discover whether certain diseases were due to lack of vitamin A, William J. Erickson, M. D., and Jacob B. Feldman, M. D., of Philadelphia found many persons in whom the flow of purple liquid is long retarded.

These persons are blind or partly blind for long periods. Good daylight vision seems to be no index of the purple stuff.

The physicians said that some illnesses leave people temporarily blind. An acute sinus or gripe attack may do this temporarily. Persons so far tested during jaundice have been 100 per cent night blind.

They suggested that drivers of public vehicles should be tested for adequate purple night liquid. Federal, Pennsylvania and New Jersey officials, they stated, have asked for the new instruments as soon as they can be built. At present there are only two.

"Beauty surgery" for the mangled victims of automobile accidents is the newest demand by the American people on medical men, a Detroit physician told the association.

The need for beauty surgery is the inevitable result of high-speed driving, recklessness, and the haste to get somewhere after lingering during the cocktail hour. Dr. Claire L. Straith of Detroit said.

Damage to the faces, skulls, chests and limbs of accident victims presents to the surgeon a complicated problem of cutting, stitching and replacement of parts, he said. Generally if they survive, they are more interested in their appearance than in how they feel.

"How do I look?" is a common query in the accident ward of any hospital on the morning after, he said.

The feats in "beauty surgery" that are performed to restore these individuals to as near normal appearance as possible are amply justified, the Detroit physician declared, because the effect, which is greater than the physical suffering they endure, "is the mental agony which lasts throughout life in the presence of facial disfigurements, however slight."

Enough water to supply the needs of New York City for 62 years could be held in the dams and reservoirs constructed by the federal public works administration.

Hemingway's Herd Of Holsteins Tops Ogle County Group

Top honors among the dairy herds of the Ogle County Dairy Herd Improvement association went to J. W. Hemingway, Oregon, for the fifth consecutive month as his fine herd of 8 pure bred Holsteins averaged 1278 pounds of milk and 47.89 pounds of butterfat. The second-place herd was owned by Ralph R. Thomas, Mt. Morris, as his herd of 13 pure bred and grade Holstein cows averaged 1126 pounds of milk and 37.48 pounds of fat.

Elmer Hoover, Oregon, placed third as his herd of 11 pure bred Holsteins produced a 953 pound milk and 36.81 pound butterfat record. Fourth in production was a herd of 11 pure bred Holsteins owned by Forrest Gillespie, Oregon, producing 1057 pounds of milk and 36.45 pounds of fat. Ralph Pyse, Oregon, was fifth as his herd of 14 pure bred and grade Holstein cows averaged 944 pounds of milk and 32.26 pounds of fat.

Carl Lund, tester, reports that the association average for the month was 848 pounds of milk and 29.85 pounds of fat. Nineteen of the cows on test were dry. Thirteen cows were culled from the herds because of low production. Sixty of the 251 cows on test produced over 40 pounds of fat during the month.

The cow taking first honors in butterfat production was a pure bred Holstein cow owned by Lee M. Gentry, Oregon, with 2269 pounds of milk and 74.9 pounds of butterfat. This cow, one of the many fine daughters of King Togo

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Shall We Destroy This?
By GUS W. DYER
Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

This country is recognized as the all-time leader in industrial efficiency and industrial progress. Through abundant production, general material welfare has been improved far beyond anything ever seen before.

The world was poor in material goods up to one hundred years ago, because almost all production up to that time was hand production. The word "manufacture" came out of the old order, and literally means "made by hand."

"Hand made." Men used their hands rather than their brains in the past in producing wealth.

Abundant wealth production is the result of applying brains to production. The amount of wealth that can be produced by the hands is decidedly limited. There is hardly any limit to the amount of wealth that can be produced by directive brains.

Wealth is produced not by creating new things, but by creating new values through new combinations of things. It is not the material used in making an automobile that gives the car its value, but the combination of the material in the finished product.

The production of wealth is moving things so that they will have more value after they are moved than they had before. Merely moving things isn't production. It is moving them in a certain way that makes the act productive. The all important thing in effective, efficient production is knowing things so that they will have more value after they are moved, how to move and where to deliver. Production is preeminently the product of the trained, capable, directive brain.

The vast wealth held by Ford, DuPont, Chrysler and other great industrial directors is not the product of labor, employed directly by them, any more than it is the product of the millions who supplied the raw material, land, machinery, equipment and other materials and services. The workers employed and all others who made contributions received their rewards in the market value of their services and commodities. The great wealth held by these men is the product of their directive brains.

Sane governmental regulation is in the interest of freedom—governmental dictation and direction are deadly to effective, economic direction in production. Freedom to direct all of the factors in the productive process is absolutely essential to efficient and successful production.

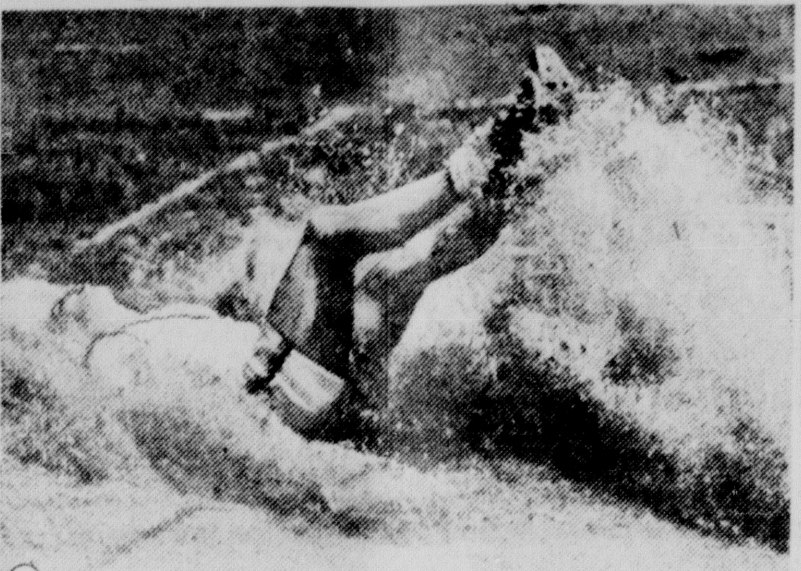

To the extent that unwarranted restrictions are applied, efficient, successful production will disappear, and we long will awaken to find our country poor again without knowing the cause.

"Coming events cast their shadows before them."

The shadows are seen, even in Washington.

Lincoln Scout Leader Joins Camp's Staff

The following Scouts from Troop 72 have registered for Camp Delavan: Elvin Bunnell, two weeks; Marshall Bunnell, two weeks; James Hoon, two weeks; James Buxton, two weeks; Darrel Coakley, one week.

Who will be the next to register? Remember that the fee increases from $6.30 to $7.00 per week if the registrations are not in by Thursday, June 10th.

E. A. Rowley, director of Camp Delavan, announces that Sherman Heinzel of Lincoln, Ill., a veteran Scoutmaster of ten years experience, has been engaged as water front director. Heinzel is a certified American Red Cross Life Saving Examiner and has attended the American Red Cross Aquatics School at Little Rock, Ark. He has had several years experience in water front work and knows the job thoroughly. He is a Scoutmaster of the troop in Lincoln which has had the highest record for advancement in the council for the past four months. Every boy who goes to camp will enjoy Heinzel and will receive the best of training in swimming, bathing and canoeing under his direction. Heinzel is being awarded the Scoutmaster's key at a Court of Honor this month as a reward for his services in Scouting in Lincoln.

Boy Scout troop committee of the First Baptist church met at the church last evening. It was decided to sponsor Troop 60 again another year.

The following men were selected to be on the Troop committee: Chairman L. E. Sitter, Theo. R. Mason, Dr. S. P. Stackhouse, Ansel Youngblood.

M. M. Rosenberg was appointed Scoutmaster. Mr. Rosenberg is employed at the I. N. U. in Dixon. He is a former Scout and is extremely interested in Scouting. Leslie Marshall was appointed assistant Scoutmaster. Leslie is a former Scout and a member of the Baptist church. He has just returned from college at Jacksonville, Ill.

Meeting of the troop will be resumed in the very near future. Watch for announcements.

Scouts of this troop that plan to go to Camp Delavan register with E. A. Rowley at Chamber of Commerce.

Two Viewpoints on Farm Tenancy Plan Hold Up Enactment

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—Congressional leaders said today a difference of views between Secretary Wallace and the house agriculture committee has been a barrier to enacting President Roosevelt's recommendations for farm tenancy legislation.

The committee has committed itself to a bill providing for extension of long-time, low-interest loans to tenants for the purchase of farms. It would appropriate $50,000,000 for five years.

Wallace and the president's committee on tenancy, on the other hand, recommended that the government be authorized to purchase land for re-sale to tenants under terms that would not permit the buyers to acquire title in less than 20 years.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) said there would have to be a showdown between these two viewpoints.

LETTER FROM ENGLAND

Mrs. E. E. Shaw, Publisher of The Telegraph, Tells of Pre-Coronation Visit in England

Worcestershire, England.

Here you find us in this beautiful place in the English town or village of Great Malvern. We arrived last night in time for dinner at 7:30. We were told that the hotel was formerly a monastery. I'll find out later, anyway it seems large enough for one. It is an immense place built on three levels. From our room we have a perfect view of the magnificent old abbey with its towering spires and wonderful cathedral glass windows which I judge are 25 feet high and six feet wide. We will be taken there presently.

This morning we were awakened by cathedral bells which is not uncommon in England and which we love.

After dinner last evening every one gathered in the several large parlors. Coffee is never served at the table at night, always at little glass topped coffee tables where the waiter brings coffee, sugar and cream in silver utensils and you pour the coffee. Of course, some have liquor instead. Every one seems to be reading unless it be a group of Americans sitting around the fireplace. Everywhere every morning the windows are wide open. The halls, parlors, writing rooms, bath. The English love fresh air and thrive on it.

Yesterday was full of interest in historical Gloucester, another Abbey. Each one seems so marvelous. This one was of huge dimensions. It took us several hours to go through. The early monks lived in beautiful surroundings as far as the walls, ceilings, floors and windows were concerned. Such carvings, beautiful designs, perhaps leaves or flowers in the finest, most delicate lace-like patterns. You likely have read of all these churches and know more than I do about them, aside from actually seeing them.

Our group of members of the English Speaking Union were entertained in Gloucester at a very beautiful luncheon by the Mayor and Mayoress. They wore some of the state jewelry. The Mayor wore a magnificent, very heavy gold chain that came to his waist, say 2 1/2 inches wide. It was set with diamonds and beautiful enamel work in colors enhanced its beauty. The Mayoress wore a similar one, smaller and minus the large diamond. The sheriff, who is a very important figure, also wore a chain and that wasn't all. He wore a monocle. He was a snappy looking sheriff. By profession this sheriff is a barrister. We call them lawyers in the U. S. The Mayor is the official coroner. The Mayor is a newspaper owner. Gloucester is governed by 30 councilmen elected by the people for a three year term. Then aldermen are elected by the councilmen for 6 years. They meet once a month, go into session at 11 a. m. and often remain until 6 p. m., according to the amount of business to be taken up. Not one of the councilmen or aldermen receive a cent. They are high class men and evidently have great love for their city. The laws are strict in England and are pretty well obeyed.

STORIES IN STAMPS

BY I. S. KLEIN

HE SOUGHT THE SOUL OF MAN.

SON of a professor of law, Gottfried Wilhelm von Leibnitz only naturally directed his studies in that profession. He was born in Leipzig, Germany, in 1646, and qualified for his law degree a year before he could get a legally. Immediately he set out to reform the "Corpus Juris," or body of the law. But his interest quickly veered toward a search for the source of man's soul, and an effort to explain God's trust in man. Out of this came Leibnitz's basic philosophy, that the soul, like all the senses of man, was born with a person, and that it is the consciousness of its presence that is acquired later by education and experience.

In mathematics, as in philosophy and law, Leibnitz became world famous. He improved and added to the study of calculus, and to analytical geometry. In 1700, he became chief organizer and first president of the Berlin Academy of Sciences. He died, in 1716, at the age of 70 years. Germany, in 1926, included his portrait on one of a series of stamps honoring its famous sons. It is shown here.

Jealousy—an Emotion in Motion

If you've never seen a nightmare walking, the above picture might give you a rough idea, but it's really only Dancer Doris Harman putting her emotions through their paces in a surrealist dance at Los Angeles. To Dorothy, distorted movements convey distorted ideas. The above interpretation is "jealousy," green-eyed and grotesque.

CASE CONTINUED

East St. Louis, Ill., June 8—(AP)—Elbert C. Lamb, 16 year old vagrant, will be tried in September for the slaying of Mrs. Mary Flannery, 82, who was found beaten to death in her home here last April 21. City Judge Ralph Cook ordered the case continued yesterday.

The bows of the early American Indian were inferior to those now manufactured, and the Indian did his most effective shooting at distances under 25 yards.

We are both so delighted with everything and haven't missed a trick since leaving home. We feel so well. Guess we are the two strong ones of the party of 41—for we are always the first on hand to go and the last in, and too, we haven't forgotten how to laugh—many amusing things happen.

This is not in order. Had some spare time so wandered around the shops. We were much amused by the signs in the windows. Blanch bought some gloves at Williams The Hatter. The clerks (clerks they pronounce it) are the essence of politeness. The head waiter always for breakfast, lunch and dinner wears the tail coat and the men waiters everywhere wear the tail coats for the evening meals. We like the food and the English custom is breakfast, then coffee at 11, luncheon at 1, tea at 4 and dinner at 7:30 or 8. Then coffee or something to drink and they, the English men and women, all seem to smoke.

U. S. Death Rate Is Highest Since '29

Washington, June 8—(AP)—The census bureau said today the 1936 death rate in the United States was 11.5 per 1000 population—the highest since 1929. The 1935 rate was 10.9.

Deaths last year totaled 1,417,177, the bureau said, an increase of 81,425 over the previous year.

Although saying no explanation of the increase would be available until census statistics are studied further, the bureau reported the heat wave last July and an increase in respiratory deaths early last year probably were the principal factors. The Illinois death rate was 11.7 per 1000 population.

The tulip tree is known also as white-wood, canoe-wood, saddle tree, and yellow poplar. Curiously, the nearest relative of this American tree is found in the Chinese interior.

GOVERNMENT IS CERTAIN MALONE EVADED TAXES

Allegedly Received More Income Than He Reported

Chicago, June 8—(AP)—The government argued in its income tax evasion case against William H. Malone today that it had proved "almost to the letter" that the former Illinois state tax commission chairman deposited $269,000 in 1929 and $62,050 in 1930 from income other than his regular income.

"By the way," Assistant United States District Attorney Austin Hall added, "the government does not have to prove exactly to the dollar. It needs only to prove the defendant received more income than he reported for those two years."

Malone has been on trial for two weeks before a Federal Court jury of 12 members and an alternate on charges of evading income tax payments of approximately $60,000 for the two years. The case was expected to reach the jury late in the day.

In a summary of evidence, Hall said in 1928, Malone made "large currency deposits"—$1,000 and $500 bills aggregating $233,000 on which he made no return whatever. He said the reason for submitting evidence from 1928 although the state of limitations applied to that year was to show intent on Malone's part to violate the income tax law even that early.

Law's Provisions Hall referred to his opening statements in which he claimed Malone received large amounts from corporations or their attorneys to influence him in his decisions as chairman of the commission, and called attention to the income tax statute requiring citizens to report and pay tax on income "derived from any source whatever."

"We have proved all this income in large currency was net income. There was no expense to Mr. Malone in getting it," Hall said.

Malone testified yesterday that Col. William C. Proctor, Cincinnati soap manufacturer, paid him $700,000 for services in connection with the campaign of Gen. Leon-

ELECTRIFYING "FAN DANCE"

How times have changed for Sally Rand! Of yore she'd keep cool by stripping down to her fans; today you see her, seated in front of an electric fan, a long, cold drink in her hand, warming up to an evening at a New York night club. But blow of blows, Grover Whalen announced there'd be no place at the New York World's Fair for Sally and her fan dance, except in the wax figure museum.

Paralysis Victim Standing Trip In Iron Lung Well

Kobe, Japan, June 8—(AP)—Frederick Snite, Jr., 26, infantile paralysis victim making the voyage from Shanghai to San Francisco in an "iron lung" aboard the liner President Coolidge was cheerful and eager today when the liner docked here.

He revelled in the publicity being given his strange journey and repeatedly read the many cables he has received.

Snite is being taken to the Billings hospital at Chicago. He was stricken 14 months ago while on a world tour and has been kept alive by the iron lung.

PWA EXTENSION ANOTHER 2 YRS. GRANTED TODAY

Washington, June 8—(AP)—The senate received today a house-approved measure to extend the public works administration for another two years.

Senate leaders decided to handle the proposal as an amendment to the $1,500,000,000 work-relief bill rather than as a separate measure. The relief hearings are nearing completion.

Under present law, PWA would expire on June 30 after four years of existence as an agency to make loans and grants to local governments. Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.) said after visiting the White House, however, that President Roosevelt had no objection to its continuation.

The House voted yesterday without a roll call to give PWA a $259,000,000 working fund for the extension period. This would in-

Several New Volumes Placed on Shelves at Dixon Library

MIGHTY FORTRESS — LeGrand Cannon.

It is greatly to Mr. Cannon's credit, and a tribute to his skill, that his unpretentious but thoughtful picture of a young New England preacher in the '50's succeeds in making an entirely human being of Zeke Peele without once misunderstanding his profession or the way that he felt about it. A first novel that shows genuine talent.

NEW ETIQUETTE—Margaret Wilson.

Clear and complete in every detail it avoids outmoded trivialities and sustains reader interest throughout.

MR. CURRIER AND MR. IVES—Crouse. The interest lies not only in the quaint illustrations of the American scene but in the essays Mr. Crouse has written describing the customs of the time. The illustrations are reminiscent of those that were thrown out in the '90's, but like the horseshair sofa, they are back in favor and many of them are rarities.

GOODYEAR SMACKS RISING TIRE PRICES WITH SENSATIONAL NEW "R-1"

World's Biggest Tire-Maker Hits Bull's-Eye — to Offset Soaring Costs with Stunning New Product Millions of Car-Owners Wanted

A SWELL BREAK for every car-owner who wants quality tires of the leading make and national reputation — at the price he has been paying. This new Goodyear "R-1" tire is built to order for the millions of these drivers!

YOU know what's happening—it's been headlined for weeks.

Up... up... up goes cost of production, labor, materials — the price of almost everything you buy.

But Goodyear meets that challenge right now—meets it squarely on the nose—with a big, tough, thrifty new tire AT THE PRICE YOU'RE USED TO PAYING: the sensational "R-1."

See it: judge for yourself

Months ago, at the first threat of rising costs, Goodyear swung into action — the greatest talent in rubber focused on this job!

Fighting higher costs with brains and ingenuity they made a bull's-eye—with this great, new "R-1" that's now waiting for you at Goodyear dealers' and Goodyear Service Stores.

One look tells you it's got the stuff! Here's the "beef" to deliver more mileage—12% more rubber in the tread.

It's based on the dependable construction lessons learned in building more than 23,000,000 Pathfinder—plus the principles of super-mileage and safe going developed in the famed "G-3" All-Weather.

We packed in every great Goodyear feature. Center Traction—the Goodyear Margin of Safety. Higher, broader shoulders—to "hold" true on curves. Wider riding-ribs — for slow, even wear. Patented Supertwist Cord in every ply — for maximum blowout protection!

Don't wait: see the great, new "R-1" in your size, now. It's a bombshell in the field of bedrock-priced high quality!

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY THE "R-1" IS GREAT

FLATTER, WIDER TREAD gives you more road-contact, more traction

12% MORE RUBBER IN TREAD gives you more wear, more mileage

Federal Grading Aids Egg Market

The outstanding improvement in recent years in marketing eggs has been the federal government grade system, started in West Virginia about nine years ago. Today it is in effect over practically the entire country. Last year more than one million cases of eggs were inspected by government graders at country points and terminal markets. One advantage of the system is that eggs carry the grade designations through the various marketing channels from producers to consumers. Producers selling according to government standards realize the value of quality in eggs, and are induced by the dollars and cents factor to produce higher quality eggs. Marketing machinery has been set up to carry on this egg grading work. State supervisors are licensed by the federal department of agriculture, and they in turn recommend for license the various egg graders under their supervision. In most states the extra cost of this service is less than 2½ cents per case.

The famous red pipe-stone known as catlinite was the favorite material for Indian pipe bowls. This easily worked, finely grained stone was found west of Big Stone Lake, South Dakota.

The arch form of construction in bridge building is such that the outward pressure of the units making the arch carries the load to the ends, where it is resisted by abutments.

BLOAT CAUSING LIVESTOCK LOSS IN THIS AREA

Urge Care in Pasturing as Preventive Means for Condition

Luxuriant plant food resulting from heavy rains has caused a marked increase in losses of livestock from acute bloating in this area and in other sections of Illinois.

Acute bloating of cattle and sheep occurs most frequently during the spring and summer when the animals are on pasture, according to L. E. Boley, assistant in animal pathology at the state college of agriculture. Most dangerous of the easily fermented plant foods are clover and alfalfa when the plants are young and the water content high.

The dangerous nature of feed plants increases when they are moist with dew or rain. Bloating, therefore, is generally more common in the early morning during rainy weather, and in the spring and fall. Greedy feeding on grass or legumes when animals are first turned on pasture predisposes to the condition. An excess of any feed may produce bloat.

Preventive Measures
 Preventive measures consist of proper care and feeding. Farmers whose livestock is bothered least by bloat permit the animals to run on legumes only after they have received some dry feed. They are not turned on such pastures in the early morning and during rainy weather they are not allowed to graze very long on dangerous pasture. They also are moved about during pasturing.

Acute bloatings, characterized by swelling in the left flank, is caused by formation of gas in the rumen or paunch. It is recommended that a veterinarian be called at once when cases of bloat are found in a herd. However, emergency treatment is sometimes found necessary while awaiting the veterinarian's arrival.

If the case is not extreme, driving the animal at a walk for a quarter of an hour may be sufficient. A gag such as a piece of rope or stick of wood may be placed in the animal's mouth as a bit and held there by a rope tied behind the horse or ears. The efforts of the animal to dislodge the object by moving the jaw and tongue may permit the easy escape of gas.

Emergency Treatment
 Frequently the soaking of the animal's flanks with cold water helps to relieve the condition. One ounce of kerosene in one quart of water as a drench is often given cattle as an emergency measure. Sheep are usually given four to six ounces of the kerosene and water mixture.

Even though the emergency treatment may reduce the bloat, Boley says it is advisable that the veterinarian treat the animal to prevent the immediate recurrence of the condition.

Well Cared for Steers Top Market

The value of good care plus a good ration as factors in efficient livestock production was demonstrated at Chicago recently when Grant Mackey, Warren county, topped the market at $16 a hundred weight for a load of twenty prime fat steers. The cattle were fed much the same ration that other farmers fed, including a full feed of grain, some cottonseed meal, some silage and hay. However, Mackey gives his cattle unusually good care. He beds them well and carries them frequently. They like him and are well satisfied all the time. The market-topping steers had been on full feed for 230 days during which time they gained an average of more than two pounds a day. Their scale weight at Chicago was 1,319 pounds. E. T. Robbins, livestock extension specialist of the college of agriculture, who headed a group of cattlemen visiting the Mackey farm, emphasized the importance of good care as a factor in a cattleman's success.

Grain Elevator Men to Learn About Grading

Managers of several grain elevators in Lee and adjoining counties will have an opportunity to obtain some first-hand information in grading at a grain grading and marketing school to be held at the state college of agriculture at Urbana, beginning Thursday and continuing through Friday of this week. In this connection it is of interest to note that the 1,700 grain elevators of Illinois last year handled 200,000,000 bushels of grain.

The school at Urbana is to be sponsored jointly by the agricultural economics and agronomy departments of the college and the two-day course will combine lectures with laboratory instruction. Assistant Dean R. R. Hudelson will welcome the elevator men, who will have an opportunity on the first day to hear Fred G. Smith and W. B. Combs of the United States department of agriculture discuss grain grading history and problems and grain grading equipment. Other opening day speakers are Benjamin Koehler, associate chief in crop pathology; W.

SURVEY SHOWS TERRACES AID VALUE BOOSTS

Land Prices Increase as Result of War on Erosion

Alarmed at the most serious sheet erosion in years due to heavy rains during the winter and spring, many farmers of Lee and adjoining counties plan to do considerable terracing of their lands this year. Local farmers will no doubt be interested in the results of a survey of Illinois farms which shows that terracing, costing from $150 to $600 an acre, has increased land values on many farms as much as $10 to $25 an acre.

Some farmers co-operating in the survey report that in several instances terracing boosted farm land values as much as 10 to 33 per cent. The survey also disclosed that where farmers had properly terraced the land their fields survived the heavy rains quite satisfactorily.

R. C. Hay, extension specialist in agricultural engineering of the University of Illinois, who aided farmers in making the survey, points out that the most common source of difficulty found on terraced farms was in the outlets. A number of the co-operators in the survey have recommended established outlets a year or more in advance of terracing.

Chief value of terraces, according to the reports, lies in their ability to save soil and stop erosion. As an additional advantage, of particular importance during dry years, is the fact that more than half of the farms reporting noted that moisture is conserved in their terraced fields.

Half of the farmers reporting have tried contour farming and give it their approval. Although it takes from 10 to 25 per cent more time to contour-farm, they believe such advantages as reduction of erosion between terraces, better maintenance of the terrace ridges and more uniform power requirements when working on the level or contour offset the disadvantage.

Butterflies often choose flowers with colors corresponding to their own. Certain other insects have shown decided preference for specific colors.

THOUSANDS said that tires could not stand the terrific grind. They said cars had been built with much greater speed, turns in the track had been repaved with granite-like surface, yet Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires setting a new record of 113.58 miles per hour on one of the hottest days in the history of the Indianapolis track.

Here is stamina — here is dependability — here is performance that is proof of safety. 500 miles over the blistering hot brick track, at temperatures of more than 100°. Speeds of 130, 140, and even 150 were attained on the straightaways. Think of the terrific impact on these tires as the cars roared into the treacherous turns and out again. Tons of force straining, pulling, and twisting inside the tire, yet not one cord loosened, not one tread separated from the cord body — all because Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process, successfully counteracted the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life.

Why have Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires been on all the winning cars at Indianapolis for the past eighteen years? Why did every one of the thirty-three drivers in this greatest of all racing events choose and buy Firestone

Tires? Race drivers make it their business to know how tires are made and they know that Firestone Tires are built with the Firestone patented construction features of Gum-Dipping and Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords under the Tread. They know that because of these extra features Firestone Tires run up to 28° cooler and give greatest blowout protection. In fact, these men will not risk their lives or chances of victory on any other tire.

You will never drive your car at these record-breaking speeds, but for the safety of yourself and family you need the safest, strongest and most dependable tires. Come in today. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires — the safest tires that money can buy.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

No car owner is going to risk his life and the lives of his family knowingly on thin worn tires. Yet thousands of car owners are taking chances every day.

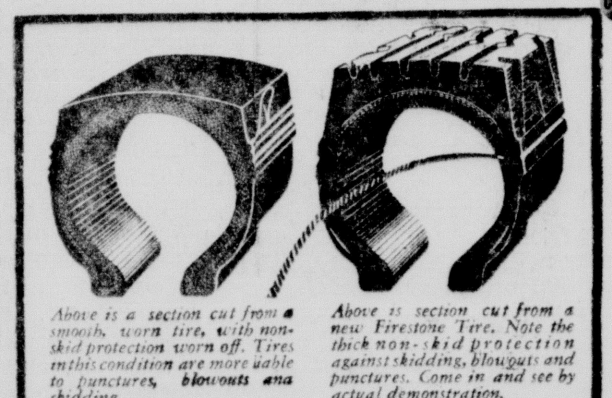

Choose the tires that champions buy. Race drivers know from experience that their lives depend on the safety of their tires. They will not drive at high speeds on any other than Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. You, too, need the same protection. Come in today and equip your car with the safest tires ever built.

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

THAT a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires?

BLACK-WHITE SHOW IS ONLY ONE WEEK AWAY

Breeders of This Area
Sponsor Event in Dixon June 15

Dairymen interested in learning what their neighboring farmers have done in the way of bettering the Holstein breed in Lee, Ogle, Bureau and Whiteside counties should pack their picnic baskets and bring their families to the first Black and White show sponsored by the newly organized Rock River Valley Holstein Breeders' association. The show will open at Assembly park in Dixon next Tuesday, June 15, and will be over in time for chores.

Rol Degner, secretary-treasurer of the association, reports that 21 members of the association will show about 70 of their best animals. There also will be exhibited a number of 4-H calf club calves. Demonstrations in judging and other features will make the show well worth attending.

The dairymen and breeders sponsoring the show are working to revive this area as a center for well bred stock and good dairying practices and if the show proves successful a similar annual event is planned. The exhibition should merit a good attendance of city folks for improved dairying in this area will be reflected eventually in better business conditions in the cities.

The breeders are not competing for valuable prizes, but they are proud of their accomplishments and desire to show what they have done and what they are attempting to do. Ribbons will be awarded the winners.

ROCHELLE NEWS

By Arthur T. Guest

Rochelle—Work on the construction of the Memorial park building which is to include two public rest rooms and a storage compartment, is progressing rapidly. The side walls of the structure are to be finished this week.

When the building is completed it will be 200 feet wide and 30 feet long and one story high. Each of its three rooms will measure 10 by 20 feet.

The cost of the construction of the building is divided between the city of Rochelle and the federal government. Skilled labor and the face brick are furnished by the city. The tile which will line the inside surface of the walls is furnished by the government, as is the cement. The common labor is furnished by the WPA.

The building should be completed and all installations made by July 1. Its facilities will add greatly to the convenience and

The American Society for the Control of Cancer acknowledges the receipt of membership fees from six Rochelle organizations and persons: Friendly society, C. A. Hills of Rochelle high school, Salome chapter D. L. of the P. E. O., Rochelle grade schools, Science club and the Woman's club.

The society which is organized for the control of cancer, is like other health organizations, and membership in it may be purchased for one dollar. There was no intensive local campaign made but the local organization hopes that by another year all Rochelle organizations will be members of the society.

The Norwegian string band of Chicago will have a fellowship rally Sunday afternoon, June 13, at Memorial park in Rochelle. The event is sponsored by the local Baptist church.

The group will appear at the Baptist church in the evening.

The Mary Monroe Service Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. Howard A. Heron Monday evening of this week.

The town board of auditors held their regular monthly meeting in the city hall Monday afternoon to review relief expenditures and consider routine business. Supervisor J. M. Weeks presided and Town Clerk Arthur V. Ward acted as secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland S. Argall, were in Culver, Ind., Sunday to attend baccalaureate services. Their son, John Argall, will graduate from the Culver military academy June 9.

The first, second and third grades at the Central school held their picnic at Memorial park Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Kittler and daughter, Mary Jean, left Thursday morning for Atlantic City where Dr. Kittler will attend the American Medical association convention. He is one of the four delegates from Illinois. They plan to be gone three weeks. From Atlantic City they are going to New York and up to Canada. On their way home they will stop in Benton Harbor, Mich., where they will visit their daughter, Mrs. William Bain, and family.

Elmer J. Wagner has purchased the Rochelle Produce company and will continue the business. Mr. Wagner will buy poultry and eggs as well as sell a good line of feeds.

Henry Jahn of Rochelle will receive his bachelor of science degree from Monmouth college Tuesday, June 8, as the college observes its commencement with a full program. Mr. Jahn has a major in social science.

Commencement activities began on Thursday when President and Mrs. Grier entertained the members of the senior class and faculty.

The members of the senior class will be inducted into membership in the Alumni association at the annual banquet Monday evening.

Dr. Arch Owen, '07, of Assuit, Egypt, is toastmaster.

The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. William Fulton of Rockford, Ill. The exercises on Tuesday morning will mark the end of the 81st year of Monmouth college.

Mr. Jahn is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, and has served as president of the organization. He has received his varsity letters in football, and he was also a member of the swimming team.

Meanwhile a group of 25 4-H club boys from Lee county is planning to attend the July camp south of Rockford.

Tomato Plant New Industry in State

The growing of tomato plants for transplanting promises to be a new agricultural industry for Illinois. It is estimated that 36,000,000 tomato plants, or enough to set 15,000 acres of tomatoes, were produced on two 75-acre farms in Pulaski county this spring. This is the first time tomato plants have been grown on such a large scale in Illinois, according to Lee A. Somers, extension gardening specialist of the state college of agriculture. The bulk of the plants were contracted by members of an Indiana canners' association with smaller amounts being sold in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ohio. About five pounds of seed were planted to the acre, with each pound containing about 100,000 seed. The seeds were planted an inch apart in rows one foot apart. Arrangements were made for smudging in case of frost, as the seed were planted early, but the crop came through in good shape. Georgia and Tennessee are leading states in the commercial production of tomato plants at present.

More mileage is an assured fact with D-X or D-X Ethyl, because, as an exclusive feature, these modern motor fuels contain a special high heat-resisting lubricant which provides needed lubrication to upper cylinder parts not adequately lubricated by crankcase oil. (See cross-sectional diagram of motor at left.) This extra upper cylinder lubrication makes engines run faster and cooler, decreases wear and increases mileage.

YANKS, BEATEN AGAIN, VIEWING WEST AS JINX

Only Two Triumphs In Six Contests While On Road

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

The world champion Yankees are beginning to lose faith in this "go west" business.

The first time they deserted the Bronx for Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis, they compiled the indifferent record of four victories and five defeats. Now going into Chicago to meet the amazing White Sox, their report card shows only two triumphs in six starts since they opened the tour in Cleveland a week ago.

Until yesterday, when the Tigers gave them a 4-3 trimming, their own misguided actions had been responsible for much of their woes. But yesterday they had no such excuse—just too much good pitching by southpaw Jake Wade, who let them down with four hits and struck out nine, and too much hitting by the Detroiters, who landed on Lefty Gomez for eight hits, including Hank Greenberg's game-winning homer.

White Sox Ride Crest
Manager Joe McCarthy hardly can look forward to the White Sox series with enthusiasm for the Sox are riding the crest of a nine-game winning streak, best to date in the majors, that has tied them for second place with Cleveland in the won-and-lost column and put them five points behind in the percentage. Both are within a game of the Yankees.

Possibly it's the big black cigars favored by Manager Jimmy Dykes that hold the secret of Sox success. The team has the 1936 American league batting champion in Luke Appling, a slugging first baseman in Zeke Bonura, and a shrewd catcher in 36-year-old Luke Sewell, but beyond that little of any note.

Three of the Sox pitchers have accounted for 14 out of 24 victories—Monty Stratton, with six; Vernon Kennedy, only 20-game winner last year, with five, and Bill Dietrich, who last week pitched a no-hit, no-run game and yesterday chalked up his third win as the Sox belted four Athletics' tossers for sixteen hits and a 12-6 triumph.

Hears Feller Coming Back
Nor could it have pleased McCarthy much to hear that Bob Feller would be back with the Indians in another week. The Indians have been doing well enough without their schoolboy wonder, as witness the 17-5 shelling of the Senators yesterday that marked Earl Whitehill's 200th major league victory. The 37-year-old southpaw, dean of the Cleveland staff, allowed only one hit for four innings, then eased up after his mates gave him eight runs in the third.

In the other American league game Oral Hildebrand's six-hit effort turned back the Red Sox, 9-6, as Wes Ferrell lost his sixth.

Meanwhile the Giants widened their National league lead to a game and a half over the idle Cubs with a 5-2 defeat of the Pirates. The Bucs have lost five straight and have dropped their last six battles with the Terrymen. The Dodgers gave Roy Henshaw, who won his first game last Saturday, his second triumph in three days by edging out the Reds, 5-4, in ten innings.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press
Earl Averill, Indians—His home run and triple, both in eight-run third inning, led way in 17-5 slaughter of Senators.

Hank Greenberg and Jake Wade, Tigers—Formers' 14th four-bagger accounted for deciding runs, latter's four-hit, nine-strikeout pitching checked Yankees, 4-3.

Harry Gumbert, Giants—Hurled five-hit game, as well as hitting home run to give them sweep of Pirates with 5-2 triumph.

Tennis Tourney Brackets Rapidly Filling in; Some Positions Yet Untaken

Trophy Race Begins Thursday; To Last Five Weeks

Twenty-two players signed up for competition in the Dixon Evening Telegraph's second city tennis tournament at a meeting which was held in The Telegraph news room Monday night.

For those who wish to enter the tourney who were not present at the meeting Monday, a few berths in the lower bracket remain. All wishing to enter must file their names with Charles Ross at The Telegraph before Thursday morning.

The tournament will officially begin on Thursday it was decided at the meeting. The first round must be played off by the following Thursday, June 17. The second round must be completed by Thursday, June 24, and the quarter-finals by Thursday, July 1. The time limit for the semi-finals will be Homecoming day, Monday, July 5, and the finals must be played by Sunday, July 11.

Quick Draws Bye
Howard Quick, seeded No. 1 player, by virtue of his attaining a runner-up position in the 1936 tournament, was given a bye in the upper bracket. In the lower bracket William Krug, an outstanding semi-finalist of the 1936 tournament drew a bye into the second round.

At the meeting Monday night the upper bracket was completed by the drawing of the names of those present. The entire entry list to date follows: Alan Weinman will meet Herbert Walker, Lucius Thomson tackles Don Hilliker, Gene Goddard faces Charlie Ross, Chuck Coffin takes on Snow, Bill Pontius will clash with Henry Pollock, Clarence Bauer opposes Earl Stevens in a match between two left-handed racketeers, Bob Kline plays Chuck Kearney, Fred Huebner collides with Ken Smith, Dale Blackburn plays George Lebre, and Clifford Planagan is paired with Ed O'Brien in the first round. Bud Preston will meet Leslie Marshall.

An exciting first round is forecast for the tournament. Several dark horses are likely to appear that will make things interesting for the favorites. Runner-up Quick may find at least three strong contenders in the meet capable of giving him a fight to the finish. An upset is possible in every pairing inasmuch as few have played much tennis this year and the race is wide open to all who can develop the fastest.

1. First round must be played off by Thursday, June 17 or forfeit.

2. Second round must be played off by Thursday, June 24 or forfeit.

3. Quarter-finals must be played off by Thursday, July 1 or forfeit.

4. Semi-finals must be played off by Monday, July 5 or forfeit.

5. Finals must be played by Sunday, July 11.

6. Contestants will furnish own racket, balls, and nets.

7. Each match will consist of two out of three sets except finals which will consist of three out of five sets.

8. Starting Thursday, June 10, a chart will be erected at high school courts and all match winners will post their names in appropriate places on the chart.

Here and There In Sports World

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, June 8—(AP)—The wolves are howling for the scalps of Charlie Dessen and Steve O'Neill. It's been 15 years since a golfer won the P. G. A. tourney and the national open in the same season. The way is being paved for a Pedro Montanez-Barney Ross welterweight title fight outside of New York. Mebbe Jersey will land it (or Philadelphia). Dizzy Dean is cockier than ever since he got back without "signing nothing."

Go to college and take the wife along. Athletic director are accustomed to finding work for their prize athletes, but a mid-western mogul bumped into a new one recently when a star tackle refused to report unless a job was found for his wife. P. S.: She got it. Biggest single ticket buyer for the Braddock-Louis fight is a Chicago millionaire who bought "cherce" pasteboards. Mike Jacobs flew to Chicago to personally make the sale. Harry Lenny, the fight manager, is a red-hot opera fan. Looks like the Yanks are beating themselves in the west.

One Chicago newspaper reports it received scores of telephone calls last Thursday night from persons wanting to know who won the Braddock-Schmelling fight. Del Baker, pinch hitting for Mickey Cochrane as manager of the Tigers, knows just how it feels. Back in 1924, while catching for Oakland, Del's skull was fractured when he was "beamed" by Ray Jacobs of Los Angeles. That North Carolina woman who has been yawning for 225 hours has nothing on the boxing writers who covered the Schmelling-Phantom fight preparations. We still like Henry Picard to walk away with the national open.

American automobile racers will be shooting for the biggest pot of gold ever hung up for an auto race when they start roaring around the Roosevelt raceway here, July 3. Raceway officials have offered $10,000, in addition to the original purse of $60,000 exclusively for American drivers and American cars. Maxie Roesch, a three-sport man at Southern Methodist not so long ago and Bill Irb, who used to play tackle for Tulane, are sparring partners in Jimmy Braddock's camp. Glenn Cunningham hints a new record for the mile may be hung up in the Princeton invitation meet next week. Three guesses who Glenn thinks will do it.

Jack Doyle, the Broadway betting commissioner, and his little black book already are on the job at Oakland Hills. Old Rabbit Maranville, who ought to know, says little Sammy Bell of Montreal is the best young second sacker he ever saw. Rabbit was around when such guys as Frankie Frisch and Rogers Hornsby were coming along, so young Mr. Bell can step right out and take a nice large bite for himself. Hartford high school of White River Junction, Vt., had a string of 35 baseball victories until Hanover high came along and bumped it off the other day.

Braddock Rests, Plays Golf, Keeps His Fighting Edge

Grand Beach, Mich., June 8—

(AP)—Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock took it comparatively easy today, satisfied that he is well ahead of his schedule of training for his bout June 22 with Joe Louis in Chicago.

The titleholder, who visited Washington park race track in Chicago yesterday to celebrate his 31st birthday, played a round of golf with Manager Joe Gould and Barney Ross, the welterweight titleholder who also is training here. Braddock will box again tomorrow.

GREAT HARNESS HORSES TO MEET IN RACE SERIES

International Turf Climax Date Still Is Undecided

New York, June 8—(AP)—Two of the greatest harness horses of recent years, Greyhound and Muscletone, are scheduled to meet this year in the first international match race in the history of American harness racing.

Greyhound, 1935 winner of the rich Hambletonian stake, the "derby" of harness racing, is owned by E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill. Muscletone, bred in this country and raced for C. B. Shaffer's Coldstream stud of Lexington, Ky., now races in the colors of Givo Maiani of Milan, Italy, although it is reported his real owner is Premier Mussolini.

While the negotiations are being carried on by Sep Palin, who handles Greyhound, are not yet complete, the plans call for a home-and-home series with a $10,000 side bet on the outcome of each. The first is to be held in America late this summer and the second either at Milan or Paris in December or January.

$10,000 Minimum Purse
The sponsor of the American race will be required to put up a minimum purse of $10,000. Palin said Dunbar Bostwick's new mile track at Aiken, S. C., Syracuse, N. Y., Suffolk Downs at Boston and Springfield, Ill., were under consideration and half-mile tracks might also be considered.

Muscletone, which finished second to Lord Jim in the 1934 Hambletonian, has run a mile in close to 1:58 in Europe although his best time in this country was 2:02. Lord Jim trotted a mile in 1:57 1/4, a half second off Peter Manning's world record, at Springfield, Ill., last August.

WOULD EXEMPT RAILROADS IN CONNERY BILL

Chicago, June 8—(AP)—The railroad labor executives association prepared today to forward to Congress a recommendation that railroads be exempted from wage and hour provisions of the Black-Connelly bill.

The recommendation, in the form of a resolution, was adopted yesterday at a meeting of the association attended by officials of all railroad unions.

"Our industry is highly organized," George M. Harrison, president, said, "collective bargaining is almost universal, and we believe wages should be fixed by collective bargaining wherever industry is organized, and not by government fiat as they would be under the Black-Connelly bill."

The association, Harrison said, is comprised of heads of 21 railroad unions who act jointly on wage negotiations, legislation, and matters of general policy.

A committee, Harrison said, continued preliminary negotiations today with representatives of the association of American railroads on a 20-cent an hour wage increase asked by 14 non-operating unions.

Six-Round Workout On Brown Bomber's Training Program

Kenosha, Wis., June 8—(AP)—Another six-round workout with sparmates was on Joe Louis' program today as the Brown Bomber held rigidly to his program of training for a world title bout June 22 at Chicago with Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock.

Louis did not work out yesterday. He took a rest as a reward for his good showing Sunday against three hired helpers. The Bomber showed increased speed and an improvement in his timing.

PAUL RUNYAN UNAFRAID OF LINKS ROUGH

Oakland Hills Has No Terrors For Accurate Pro

Birmingham, Mich., June 8—(AP)—The tall and thick "hay crop" which borders the fairways of Oakland Hills Country club—the course has been "toughened up" for the 41st annual national open which starts Thursday—holds no terrors for Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y.

The midget Runyan, who tips the beam at 140 pounds and stands about five feet six, boasts the nickname of "Little Poison" due to his ability to hit 'em down the middle and into the hole with the least possible trouble.

Runyan's face beamed as he finished his first practice round yesterday, and today he disclosed the reason.

"I hope," he said, "that they let that crop grow tall enough to hide Bobby Cruickshank. When the rough is tough, and the fairways narrow like this, we have a chance against the long hitters. No long hitter can turn loose all his power and keep 'em down the alley on a course like this, and if they get into the rough there's a bunch of us short hitters, who are generally down the middle, who will be heard from."

Ky Laffoon, the Chicago Cherokee, paced the practice round yesterday with a 69, three under par, after missing a four-foot putt for a birdie on the last hole. He turned in four birdies, and was over on the tenth when he three-putted.

Veteran Harness Racing Driver Is Seriously Hurt

Berea, O., June 8—(AP)—Lee Tink, 45 years old Owasso, Mich., harness racing veteran, lay unconscious in Community hospital today from critical injuries suffered at the Berea track in a spill last night.

Tink received a possible skull fracture and internal injuries when the bay gelding, Jackie McFee, stumbled and pitched him from his sulky high in the air in the opening mile dash of the classified pace, second event on the program.

The trampled form of the Michigan driver was carried from the track by Doc Parshall, Sep Palin, Fle Fleming, Harry Short, Charley Lacey and other reinsmen who frequently pilot Grand Circuit horses. Peter Mainstreet II, with Whitey Dennison driving, piled into the fallen horse about the same time Tink crashed to the ground, but Dennison was not injured.

Chicago, June 8—(AP)—Tended by scores of trainers 400 thoroughbreds waited in huge Soldier Field today for the opening tomorrow of the $30,000 Charter Jubilee Chicago horse show.

Many of the nation's biggest stables are represented and several crack riding teams including the eastern champions, the 61st cavalry of New York, will compete for ribbons. The program will run through Sunday.

Lee and Ogle Counties Plan Soil-Saving Meets To Discuss 1938 Plans

Arrangements Follow Conference Held at Polo

In accordance with plans made at a district meeting of farm leaders at Polo last Thursday, meetings of county agricultural conservation committees and county planning committees will be held in Lee, Ogle and adjacent counties within the next few days to make suggestions concerning the 1938 federal soil conservation program for Illinois and other states in the north central region of the United States.

At these county meetings sentiment of the farm leaders will be obtained concerning five major phases of the conservation program. Preparation of the 1938 program is undertaken much earlier than was the 1937 program, as state and federal agricultural authorities hope to have the plan shaped before the fall seeding of wheat in the north central region. They also believed that a full in farm operations after spring seeding would give the farmers an opportunity to point out defects in the 1936 and 1937 programs and offer suggestions for improving next year's program.

Answers to questionnaires submitted at all county meetings will be forwarded prior to June 26 to the Illinois agricultural conservation committee, which will prepare a state summary to reach the authorities at Washington by July 10.

Seeks Payment Views
The first major question to be considered at the county meetings involves practice payments. The farmers are to be asked to state what proportion of all payments should be made for soil-building in the county and also in the north central region, which embraces the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska.

Under this general question the farmers also are to be asked if they believe practice payments as made under the 1937 program adequately stimulate soil-building, if there should be an increase in practice payments normally followed and if additional practices not normally followed should come within the payment classification. The farmers likewise will express their views as to whether more practice payments should be made for soil conservation.

It is pointed out that in the north central region as a whole more or less diversion from soil-depleting to soil-conserving crops is essential before adequate soil conservation can be obtained. A goal of 100-185,000 acres of soil-depleting crops is recommended, and the achievement of this goal would constitute a diversion of about 16 per cent from the total regional soil-depleting base of 130,000,000 acres established for the 1937 program.

Consider Bases
The second major question at the county meetings will involve bases and what relative weight should be given each of the following factors in establishing bases for individual farms: History of the individual farm; proportion of total cropland in the county devoted to the crop or crops for which bases are to be established; systems of farming based on good land use and farm management principles; and other factors which farmers may decide to recommend.

The state committee says that much of the success of the program depends upon correctness of the individual bases established, and the question of bases should be determined in a manner which will encourage farmers to participate in the program.

The third major question to be considered involves diversion and non-diversion farms, whether this form of classification should be continued in the 1938 program. If the classification is to be continued, the farmers are asked to state how they would have such classification determined.

Classification is Problem
The fourth major question has to do with land classification. There are two phases of this question to be answered, as follows: Should a general land use program be developed by the several governmental agencies to displace eventually the agricultural conservation program in areas unsuited to continuing production of planted crops, and should the agricultural adjustment administration cease to make payments for agricultural conservation on lands which later may be classified as unsuited to continuing production of planted crops, except for practices adapted to such lands.

It is suggested that perhaps a program could be built for such areas which would encourage a shift in land uses, not primarily for the sake of soil conservation, but to get such areas into uses for purposes for which they are better suited. Such measures might include re-forestation, the development of grazing areas, recreational areas or game preserves.

The fifth major question relates to administrative problems. The farmers will be asked for opinions as to method of division of payments as between landlord and tenant, both in the matter of diversion and soil-building payments; the merits or demerits of the preliminary analysis plan; whether the present definition of a farm is satisfactory, and what reasons are given by those farmers who do not intend to participate in this year's program.

Other Suggestions Invited
Farm leaders at the county meetings also have been invited to submit any other recommendations which they believe will result in making the 1938 soil program more workable in accomplishing the main objectives of the plan.

At the Polo meeting field men from the state office told the farm leaders that congress intends to continue the soil conservation program each year until 1942. While figures of participants in this year's program are not yet available it was stated that 51 per cent of Lee county farm acreage and 59 per cent of Ogle county farm acreage participated in the 1936 soil conservation program. For the entire state of Illinois 51 per cent of the total farm acreage participated in last year's program. The per cent of total crop acres participating was 52 per cent in Lee county and 58 per cent in Ogle county.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER TO POULTRY RAISERS

Several times recently I have written you about the new style chickens.

They are not only dressed, you know, but they are thoroughly cleaned, every pin feather is removed, and they are wrapped in cellophane. I have always felt that if chickens were no more trouble than steaks or chops, people would use a lot more of them.

A friend of mine told me an interesting story the other day: "He is packing some of these chickens that are ready to cook, and he suggested to a butcher in a large city market that he try some of them. But the butcher said, 'No, I never sell more than twenty or twenty-five chickens on Saturday. I don't think I want to bother talking the women into taking these fancy ones.'"

"I'll make you a bargain," my friend told him. "If you'll let me put as many of those chickens as I want into your store, I'll take back any you have left. I just want to see whether women really will like the idea of being able to get chickens that are ready to cook." The butcher agreed, but when the man arrived with three hundred chickens, he threw up his hands. "You're crazy!" he said. "I told you I never sold more than twenty-five chickens in a day in my life."

"I said I'd take them back if you don't sell them," my friend reminded him.

That evening he came back. The butcher met him at the door. "They bought them all!" he said. "Three hundred chickens!"

"Ready-to-Cook"
Chickens wrapped in cellophane were a novelty, of course, and that probably accounted, in part, for the fact that people bought twelve times as many as usual. But mostly it was because they were ready to cook!

It seems entirely possible, doesn't it, that when most of the chickens are packed this way people will use at least twice as many as they do now?

I don't know anybody who should be more interested in this possibility than the person who is raising chickens!

We often say that the only thing about a pig that isn't used is its squeal. And with this new method of packing chickens, it's likely that uses will be found for parts of the bird that have been nothing but waste before. Glands which are useless for food have become extremely valuable for medical purposes. Chicken livers have become very popular, particularly since prohibition was repealed.

Soup companies have been featuring chicken soup the last few years. It used to be that roosters were sold by the head and were worth so little that it scarcely paid to bring them in. The soup companies began using them and now you get within a few cents per pound as much for your roosters as you do for your hens. Now they are using a lot of hens for soup, too.

In 1932 twelve million pounds of poultry was canned or used in canning; in 1936, thirty million pounds—two and a half times as much! I think the increase can be credited mostly to the popularity of chicken soup.

Chats About Folks and Farming By the Farm Editor

In the annals of equine biology twin horse colts are a rarity, but twin mule colts are said to be as infrequent as quintuplet humans. An example of the twin mule phenomena of nature is to be found on the farm of John Aiches in Henry county, Illinois. The twin mules were born about three weeks ago. They are sturdy and frisky and give promise of developing into a team of mule maturity of value to the owner, despite the fact they have "no pride of ancestry or hope for posterity."

We haven't heard any of the farmers complaining of the heat so far this season.

Over in Ogle county the farmers are not waiting for the politicians to destroy the weeds. They held a farmers' conference recently and are busy at the weed-killing task at present.

Eighteen per cent of the rural area of Illinois is now electrified, according to the IAA. 4 per cent of the area having been provided with power lines in the last twelve months. Even greater strides are predicted for the coming year.

A pageant celebrating the beginning of county Farm Bureau activities on June 1, 1912, is being considered by organized farm groups as one of the features of the second annual Illinois farm sports festival at Urbana September 3 and 4. Farm Adviser Yale of Lee county said the demonstration is expected to re-enact Illinois Farm Bureau history from the early days in DeKalb and Kankakee counties through the formation of the IAA, the marketing and co-operative movements and the approach of farm prices toward parity levels.

H. H. Alp, extension specialist in poultry at the college of agriculture, reports approximately 20 per cent of all the eggs laid in Illinois are produced in Clay, Effingham, Fayette, Jasper, Madison, St. Clair, Shelby, Washington and Wayne counties.

Farmers in the Ohio river flood area are on the road back. A. R. Wright, assistant treasurer of the IAA, reports most of the crops have been sown in the area and that there is no longer an emergency need for either feed or seed. Illinois Farm Bureaus contributed more than 70 carloads of feed and seed and about $20,000 in cash to the flood sufferers.

Illinois may become host to the world's poultry congress which is to meet in the United States in 1939. L. E. Card, chief in poultry husbandry at the University of Illinois, is co-operating with a Chicago committee in an effort to bring the meeting to that city.

Ninety thousand bushels of South African corn were unloaded last month at a South Chicago elevator leased by the Farmers' National Grain corporation. The supply of domestic corn is insufficient to meet demands, according to the corporation. The South African corn has a large heavy white kernel and the kernels are thicker than American corn, being about as wide as deep.

No single factor can be blamed for highway accidents, in the opinion of ion of C. M. Seagraves, safety director for the IAA. He says there are dozens of causes for accidents and that it is up to each driver to realize what they are and to avoid them.

Operating and policy changes proposed by the directors of the Farmers' National Grain corporation are expected to bring all the regional stockholders into participation in the national program.

Dates for the annual agricultural open house at the state college of agriculture have been set for the week of June 21 to 25. Last year more than 1700 Illinois farmers and homemakers visited the college during open house week to learn what the college is doing toward developing better farming and homemaking practices.

It is estimated that in the United States 12,000 dozens of eggs are laid every three minutes, day and night, throughout the year. That should be enough for a good-sized omelet.

Illinois co-operative leaders will join those from other states at a five-day conference at Ames, Iowa, June 21 to 25. Frank Gougler, director of produce marketing for the IAA, is on the program to discuss creamery and poultry and egg marketing. Wilfred Shaw, director of milk marketing for the association, will take part in a discussion of dairy marketing.

George Moyer and Forest Fahler, near Menodota, plan to raise 500 turkeys this season.

Some farms are so badly gullied that the farmers are considering the idea of equipping their tractors with wings.

County chorus practice is scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight at the Farm Bureau auditorium in Princeton. June 15, 22 and 29 also are chorus practice nights.

The Black and White show to be given at Assembly park in Dixon on June 15, just one week from today. Members of the Rock River Valley Holstein Breeders' association are putting on the show and will exhibit about 70 of the animals owned by various members. There also will be a 4-H club exhibit. Better plan to attend.

Miss Glenna A. Henderson, food and nutrition specialist from the state university, conducting a canning demonstration today for Bureau county women at the Manlius high school.

Sportsmen will be interested in the announcement of the federal biological survey that 4428 acres of river bottom in Mason county are being restored for the use of wild ducks and geese.

Ogle county farmers who participated in the 1936 soil conservation program have just received their final checks in payment for compliance with terms of the program. The last installment of checks represents 10 per cent of the total payment less expense for administration and the amount distributed was $21,700. The total of all payments made in Ogle county under the 1936 program was about $250,000. Participating in the program was 59 per cent of the farm acreage in the county.

Soybean hay costs more an acre than biennial hay sown with nurse crops because the cost for ground preparation, seeding and cultivation must be charged directly to the hay crop and cannot be spread over two years or shared by a nurse crop. Many farmers of Lee and Ogle counties are growing some soybean hay this year because of destruction of clover and alfalfa due to adverse weather conditions.

N. B. Gordon shipped a carload of draft horses purchased in the Polo area to Greencastle, Pa. Many farmers are disposing of horses because use of tractors is replacing the need for the animals on their farms.

J. S. Swords of Woosung, who has planted a total of 75 acres of oats and corn this year, operates his farm without hired help, and says he enjoys the work.

Paw Paw will be host for the annual "Elevator" picnic which will take place this year on June 14, and residents of that village are co-operating with the sponsors to make the affair a big success. The picnic events will take place in the city park and the adjoining school grounds. Judge Henry Reck of Mendota will be the speaker of the day. Good music is to be provided for the afternoon and evening events. Arrangements are being made to entertain many farmers and their families from surrounding communities.

The Lee County Times reports that what were clover and alfalfa fields in that section last fall turned out to be merely extraordinary growths of dandelions this year, the legumes having been killed by adverse weather conditions last winter and during the early spring.

Down Menodota way the farmers got together the other day and decided to make war on "Creeping Jenny" and other weeds. In several districts in this area the farmers also attacking the Canadian thistle. New penalties for failure to destroy certain noxious weeds are effective in Illinois July 1.

Farm Adviser D. E. Warren told the farm editor last week that indicate Ogle county will not produce much of a grasshopper crop this year. The pests are not expected to cause much trouble in Ogle county unless they elude the farmers' anti-grasshopper armies further to the south and fly into the county.

The army worm, another farm pest, is on the march in southern Illinois again this year and farmers are organizing to halt the raids. The worms have traveled north from points in Tennessee.

Happily the recent showers have not been heavy enough to interfere with corn cultivation in this section. The early planted corn seems to hold a good promise.

If you have a little grasshopper on your farm you should swat the pest before he becomes a menace. Poisoned brain is the best "swatter."

There is no excuse for unemployment if men are able and willing to work on farms. A shortage of farm labor is reported in several localities and this has been a factor in delayed planting this season. Farm help is being paid a higher wage than for several years. In some instances farmers have paid as high as $50 a month and board for common labor. That is more than many can earn in the cities.

The farm editor of the Lee County Times, comments on payments of $10,000 to $60,000 to big corporations under the 1936 conservation program, as follows: "Evidently this 400 millions of dollars of tax money is to be a great help to the poor down-trodden farmer."

Orville Gerdes and Alvin Harden, Jr., of Dixon, John Schafer of Franklin Grove and Roger Tarr of Paw Paw were the Lee county youths who participated in a recent tour of the Chicago stockyards under sponsorship of the IAA.

LEE CO. GIRLS, BOYS ATTENDING 4-H TOUR TODAY

Big Three-Day Program is Planned by College for Youths

Lee county will be represented among the 5,000 Illinois 4-H club members and local leaders who are gathering at the college of agriculture at Urbana today for the 15th annual 4-H club university tour. The tour will continue tomorrow and Thursday and is expected to be the largest gathering of Illinois farm boys and girls ever to visit the college, according to E. I. Pilchard, extension specialist in junior club work and general chairman of the tour.

Featuring musical and stunt contests, tours and judging demonstrations, the three-day schedule of recreation, instruction and entertainment annually forms the high point of interest in the activities of the more than 28,000 members of 4-H clubs who are learning better farming and home-making practices under the supervision of local club leaders, farm and home advisers and the extension service of the college.

In addition to general sessions in George Huff gymnasium at which nationally known men will appear, the program includes a circus party and picnic supper with each boy and girl registered taking part.

Entertainment for All
For the boys there will be organized tours of the university farm, including visits to the swine, sheep and cattle barns, dairy manufactures, Morrow plots, agricultural engineering building and laboratories and the materials testing laboratory. Instruction in judging livestock, grain and other farm products will be given by members of the college staff.

Highlights on the girls' program will include a demonstration on ways of making cheese with Miss Marye Dahnke from a Chicago company sharing her secrets with the girls. Mrs. Margaret Wells Wood, who is with the social hygiene association of New York, and well known as a lecturer, will be the guest speaker at separate sessions for the girls and their leaders.

Special groups, taking the place of the traditional tours, will stress many cultural subjects such as music, nature lore, art and physical charm. These subjects will be presented in illustrated lectures or demonstrations by members of the university faculty and staff. Travel movies also will be presented and the girls will be entertained with music furnished by 4-H girl trios

OGLE BUREAU HOLDS ANNUAL MEET SATURDAY

Oregon Will Be Host To Farmers and Families June 12

A fine program is promised farmers and farm homemakers who attend the annual meeting of the Ogle county Farm Bureau which will take place in the Coliseum at Oregon Saturday, June 12. J. R. Fulkerson of Jerseyville, Ill., president of the Farm Bureau of Jersey county, member of the Illinois state agricultural conservation committee and associated with the St. Louis Producers' Commission association, will be one of the principal speakers, according to D. E. Warren, Ogle county farm adviser.

Another prominent speaker will be Mrs. Elsie Miss, president of the Illinois Home Bureau federation. The women of Ogle county are engaged at present in organizing a county Home Bureau, and Mrs. Miss is expected to discuss the advantages which such an organization will offer the homemakers of the county.

Farm Adviser Warren will submit his report of the year's activities and there will be a financial report.

This year's annual meeting is held a few days later than usual, the date being changed to Saturday in order to accommodate as many farmers and members of their families as possible.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY
New York, June 8.—(AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes: wheat decreased 2,111,000 bushels; corn increased 833,000 bushels; oats decreased 725,000 bushels; rye decreased 105,000 bushels; barley decreased 304,000 bushels.

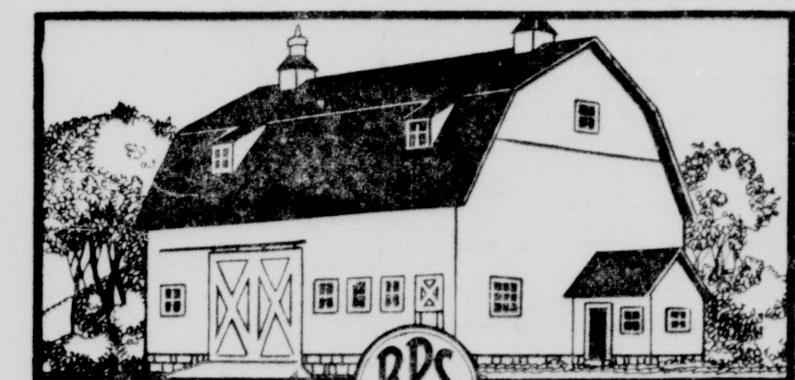

During an experiment, a mole was observed to tunnel 3 feet in the first seven hours. In 23 hours, the ambitious little animal completed 68 feet of main line tunnels, with 36 feet of branch lines, or more than 100 feet in all.

Approximately 20 per cent of the annual corn crop of the United States reaches the food markets, on the campus and professional singers.

Guests Will Broadcast
Saying "hello" to did and mother at home and telling them of the exciting things which are happening will be the privilege of many 4-H club members taking part in the tour. They will broadcast over the homemakers' quarter-hour, station WLL, at the university. The program will begin tomorrow at 10:02 a. m.

Attendance records at the university tour were broken last year when 4,227 boys and girls registered.

Side-Dress Corn WITH POTASH

CORN PLANTS on high-lime or "alkali" soils often show symptoms of potash-hunger early in the season. The lower leaves have yellowish streaks between the veins and show a brown marginal firing or "edge scorch". Later in the season the streaking and firing will extend to the upper leaves. The stalks will be weak, and the corn will be chaffy and poor in feed value. • It is not too late to apply potash fertilizers even after the symptoms of potash-starvation appear. If you did not use enough fertilizer at planting time or used an analysis with too little potash, side-dress with muriate of potash at a rate of 100-200 pounds per acre and save your corn crop. The potash should be applied as early as possible, close to the row, and down in the moist soil in the root zone. The best machine for the purpose is a fertilizer attachment on a corn cultivator, but any distributor which will place the potash near the roots is effective. • At present prices, it will cost less than the value of 2½ bushels of corn to apply 100 pounds of muriate of potash per acre. The extra potash will increase the total yields and give a greater percentage of marketable corn, which means more feed from each acre. Write us for further information and corn literature.

McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower

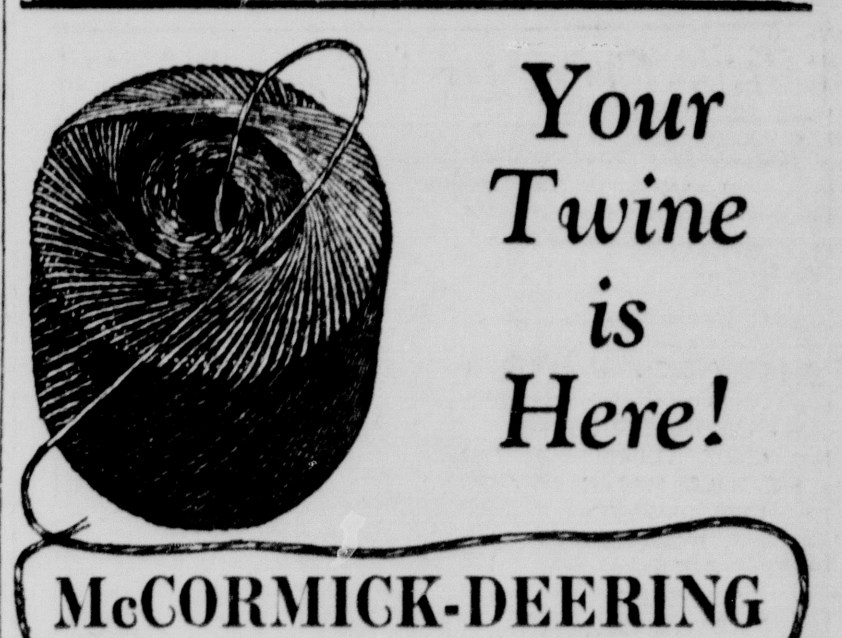

The Quiet, Long-Lived Mower That's Easier on Horses and Driver

WE are anxious to have all our friends see the New McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower. We think it is one of the finest pieces of farm equipment we have ever sold!

For example: The entire operating mechanism, including drive gears, differential, and countershafts, is assembled compactly in an oil-tight gear housing and runs in a bath of oil. There are four high-grade roller bearings. Operation is so smooth and noiseless that you can scarcely hear the light hum of the sickle!

Special oil seals at the ends of the main axle and fly-wheel shaft, and the oil-tight gear box prevent leakage and protect all working parts against the entrance of dirt and other abrasive materials. Floating action of cutter bar provides ample play without disturbing knife registration.

And what twine it is! It came from International Harvester's modern American mills, where skilled workers combined the best fiber and the latest twine science to assure you twine satisfaction. It is wound in the "Big Ball" with the patented cover for your convenience and treated against destruction by insects for your protection.

We have plenty of this good McCormick-Deering "Big Ball" Twine to go around—and there is more where this came from—but, even so, it is a good idea to come in and get yours and solve your twine problem for this season.

Nearly any binder will do better work when its needle is fed this smooth, uniform McCormick-Deering "Big Ball" Twine. A phone call will reserve your supply.

LEE CENTER NEWS

By Mrs. W. S. Frost

Lee Center—Mr. and Mrs. George King and daughters attended the graduation program of the East Peoria high school. Lois Lyman, a niece, was one of the graduates.

The Rev. Frank S. Brewer, 68 years old, passed away Sunday in an Aurora hospital. He was a Congregational minister, holding pastorates in a number of towns and for the past few years had been engaged in historical work for the church. He was a cousin of Mrs. C. W. Ross and had spoken here on different occasions. His wife preceded him and surviving are two brothers, Dr. Edwin J. and Charles Brewer.

In stepping out of the corn crib Thursday evening, Mrs. Nels Mortenson living on the William Gleim farm northeast of here, turned her foot in some manner and broke the bone above the ankle. Physicians reduced the fracture and Mrs. Freda Mortenson cared for her until her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anchor Mortenson could come from Dixon.

The following guests visited over the week end at the George King home: Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. G. Kampf of Chicago, Mrs. A. F. Lyman and daughter Lois, also Mr. E. Sandberg of East Peoria. Carol King returned with them to Peoria for a visit.

Mrs. A. J. Schwartz and Mrs. Adeline Henschel of Dixon attended Rebekah lodge here Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olmstead and two sons of Woodstock visited relatives here Thursday evening. Mrs. Malinda Aschenbrenner accompanied them home for a several weeks visit.

The Ladies Circle will meet on Thursday, June 10 at 10 o'clock.

Clarence Martz received the sad news of the death of his brother John Martz, who passed away of bright's disease at the family home near Sioux City, Iowa, May 21 at the age of 35 years, 6 months and 19 days. He received his education in the district and Sioux Rapids consolidated school from which he graduated in 1921. He also attended and graduated from the United Business Institute of Des Moines, Ia., in which city he worked for a time, then returned to the farm home near Sioux Rapids. Although physically handicapped by his condition caused by an attack of infantile paralysis when but two years old, he was able to overcome it by his cheerful disposition and interest in invention, people and travel. He had visited 28 states, 12 national parks, 8 national monuments in our country and had traveled over a considerable portion of Mexico. The memory of these trips was a source of great pleasure to him. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Martz, three brothers, Clarence of Lee Center, Elmer and Leonard Martz, Sioux Rapids, Iowa, Mrs. Bessie Newcomb, Minneapolis, Minn., Mrs. Mabelle Kerbs, Havelock, Iowa, Mrs. Laura Bervin, Estherville, Ia., and Mrs. Clara Whitaker of Storm Lake, Ia.

Funeral services were held at the Congregational church at Sioux Rapids, with interment in the Lone Tree cemetery at that place.

PATRICIA WARREN, heroine, secretary to Don Monteray, actor-playwright.
FRANK WARREN, Pats' cousin and roommate in New York.
DON MONTERAY, Patricia's actor-cousin.
ROSAMOND AKERS, Patricia's rival.

Yesterday, Don identifies Pats as his wife at police headquarters, then drops her off at her hotel, still unaware she is really his wife!

CHAPTER XI
LEANING back in the cab, Pats gave herself up to a few moments of rapturous thought. Don loved her. He had proved it without a shadow of doubt. But she must not allow his mistaken gallantry to go on. Turning over plans in her mind she decided upon the simplest. Somehow she would slip into her room without being seen. Then minus the brown wig and glasses, she would calmly, perhaps not too calmly, walk in on Don and tell her story.

By means of the servants' elevator she stealthily gained the safety of her room. Quickly she crossed to the inner door and bent her head to listen. Evidently Don had lately come in. He was talking to Sims. He was going away for a few days. Sims should order a bite from the cafe and leave the door on the latch while he helped pack. He was to notify Don the minute Mrs. Monteray came in.

Pats threw her hat and coat on the bed. The sooner the better now. Deftly she used cream, powder, rouge and lipstick, ran a comb through her spun gold hair and pushed it into soft waves. The beating of her heart smothered her, cold shivers prickled her arms. The next few moments meant so much, the beginning or the end of happiness. All at once she became rigid, listening. Voices in the living room. Oh why hadn't she hurried? Must her intimate disclosures be made before the hostile eyes of the law? Then Don's voice, rough with irritation, broke above the murmur.

"Hello, Rosie." Pats relaxed. Rosie might not be welcome but—
"The door was unlatched so we walked in," Rosie returned with an undertone of nervous tension. "Meet my lawyer, Mr. Bradlovich."

Instantly Pats scented trouble. Rosie with a lawyer. She leaned closer to the door. Every word came to her distinctly.
First Don, trying vainly to hide his impatience. "Very nice of you to stop but I'm in a deuce of a hurry. Another time perhaps."

Then the lawyer, suavely bland. "There is no better time than the present. Coming quickly to the point, Mr. Monteray, Miss Akers is about to bring suit against you."

"And on what grounds?" Don whirled around to face the attorney.
"I shall be most glad to speculate." The man's smug tone infuriated Pats, listening behind the door. "In the first place Miss Akers left a lucrative position in Hollywood to come to New York at your suggestion."

At this remark something clicked in Pats' brain. The letter from Rosie—the one she had read during her first week in Don's employ—where was that letter? She had put it in the bottom desk drawer and forgotten it. Had it ever been destroyed? She was certain it had not.

Then the lawyer, suavely bland. "There is no better time than the present. Coming quickly to the point, Mr. Monteray, Miss Akers is about to bring suit against you."

At this remark something clicked in Pats' brain. The letter from Rosie—the one she had read during her first week in Don's employ—where was that letter? She had put it in the bottom desk drawer and forgotten it. Had it ever been destroyed? She was certain it had not.

"And," Mr. Bradlovich was going on, "you kept her in this hotel, paid all her expenses—"

"Wait a minute—I loaned her money at various times—"

"I beg to differ with you, Mr. Monteray."

QUICKLY Pats pinned the wig over her curls and snapped the glasses on her nose. No time for sallow make-up now. Her dress was dark and plain. It would have to do. The occupants of the room started at her entrance.

"Patricia," Don said in a steely voice she hardly recognized, "you are just in time to witness a lowly attempt at shakedown."

"No such thing," Rosie threw in hotly. "You had me thrown out of—"

Don glared at her. "An outrageous frame-up," he grated. "Tell this fellow it's all a pack of lies. I got you a job—loaned you money—"

Rosie raised her chin and insolently shrugged her graceful shoulders.
"It will be an ugly story, Mr. Monteray," put in the lawyer. "You can not hope to find a jury which will take your word against that of Miss Akers."

started and turned. They had not reckoned with the shadow against the wall. She took the pen from Don's hand. "Don't write a word. These people have no case against you."

Don looked up at her. "What do you mean?" he asked frowningly.
"Pats turned to the lawyer. His leering smile stiffened."

Rosie said, "You keep out of this, Patricia." She was noticeably alarmed. But Pats didn't keep out of it.

"FIRST of all," Pats stated convincingly, "I happen to have a letter written by you, Rosie, while you were still in Hollywood, in which you called Don a beast, 'a mean old beast' were the exact words, because he had vetoed your suggestion that you come to New York. I think that takes care of charge number one. And Don did not pay your expenses while here except for the loans made in my presence."

The lawyer had turned a faint greenish color. He darted a furious glance at Rosie. Instantly she tried to justify her position.

"I never wrote any such letter," she stormed. "Don begged me to come, he paid my hotel bills—"

"Oh, no he didn't," Pats insisted calmly. "I paid your outrageous bills as my cancelled check will prove. You were my guest, not Don."

Don got to his feet. He moved toward the door. "And that will be about all," he said significantly. "This way out."

Mr. Bradlovich, playing for big stakes, made a last stand.
"Main force won't get you anywhere, my man," he sneered. "Miss Akers' word is as good as yours and she swears your intentions—"

Don had flared to a white heat. Pats saw his fist shoot out and meet the chin of Rosie's lawyer. It was a glancing blow as Bradlovich, possibly profiting from past encounters, dodged. However it had enough force to topple him over backward. He bounced up like a rubber ball and made a rush for Don. They fought like wild men. Don furious with the injustice of it all, the lawyer raging over the miscarriage of his plans.

Two chairs crashed to the floor, a lamp followed them. There was the sound of blows, of strangled breathings of muffled imprecations. Then Don swung hard and his opponent slithered to the floor. As Don sprang to follow his advantage, Pats screamed.
"Sims—Sims—" She had seen unquenchable hatred in her husband's eyes.

CHICAGO CHARTER JUBILEE HORSE SHOW, GREATEST

$1,000,000 Worth of Best Breeds Pours Into Windy City

A million dollars worth of horse-flesh—the most valuable aggregation of show horses that Chicago has ever seen—are rolling into the city by train and motor truck for Chicago's Charter Jubilee Horse Show, at Soldier Field, June 9 to 13.

Heavy harness horses, harness ponies, saddle horses, roadsters, hunters, and jumpers—many of which have won blue ribbons at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden, New York; the Atlantic City and the Devon, Pa. shows—are headed for Chicago. Thirty championships and $30,000,000 in prizes are at stake and the greatest stables of the United States and Canada are sending their entries.

From four great military organizations are coming the country's prize cavalry mounts to participate in the special military classes.

"The Jubilee Horse show will bring Chicago an unparalleled exhibition of horses and horsemanship," said Ned King, manager of the show, who has managed the last six National Horse shows in New York.

Military Rodeo Features

"In addition to all the classic horse show events, in which the bluebloods of the equine world will vie for prizes, the Jubilee Horse show will provide military and rodeo features full of thrills. From Fort Sheridan will come the colorful Lake Shore Lancers with their spectacular maneuvers, their tough riders and their crack jumpers.

From New York will come the 61st Cavalry, who have been sweeping the field this season. Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., is sending the team which won the recent quadrangular military meet, and the 124th Field Artillery, has entered a team that has demonstrated championship form in practice.

"Special classes include one for riders under 19 years of age and for mounted police. Full of thrills is the act which will be provided by Knapp's Rough Riders—the Kansas City, Mo., juveniles—rated as the outstanding horse-riding youngsters in the country. They do Roman riding, cowboy, Indian and cossack riding. The youngest rider is 4½ years old and the veteran is 15."

Chicago's Charter Jubilee Horse show is the opening event of a season of spectacles planned in celebration of Chicago's 100th anniversary. "It was ushered in last night by a huge parade in which 5,000 bathing beauties, athletes, choral groups, military and national organizations and popularity queens selected by Chicago's communities will march.
